Berlin War Threat More Ominous: Khrush

Bids West Go, Bring In Others

Boasts Weapon, Warns Aggressors

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev declared today that the war threat over Berlin has become "ever more ominous" and proposed that Western troops there be replaced with a garrison of Norwegian-Danish or Belgian-Dutch toops plus Czech and Polish forces.

The proposal was made after he had claimed much more powerful weapons than those of the United States, said the Soviet Union has developed an antimissile missile and declared Western "aggressors" would perish in a nuclear war.

Denounces Pacific Tests

Khrushchev denounced the current series of American nuclear tests as a "challenge to mankind" and said further improvement of weapons by the Communist countries was now an "unavoidable necessity."

He spoke on the second day of a World Peace Congress in the Kremlin. About 2,000 delegates from 118 countries are attending.

It was the first time the Russians have proposed posting forces of the smaller European Communist and Western powers in West Berlin in place of the American, British and French garrisons.

The new plan obviously was an effort to get the big powers out of the way in Berlin and leave the Communists a freer hand.

Isn't Particular

Proposing the substitution of troops, Khrushchev said: "If they don't agree to Norwegians and Danes, then let it be Belgians and Dutch."

Khrushchev said "the hotbed of war danger in the heart of Europe is becoming ever more ominous" in Berlin.

West Germany and its armed forces, he charged, "are already becoming the backbone of the aggressive forces of NATO."

His statement on U.S. tests in the Pacific and the high-altitude hydrogen explosion Monday, was unexpectedly mild. Two speakers at the congress, a Chicago professor and a British Churchman, had charged the Soviet Union with part of the responsibility for resumption of tests by breaking a three-year moratorium.

Khrusuchev said the major series of tests of the United States were "a challenge to mankind."

In Shadow of Catastrophe

High-altitude tests, he said, were "disregarding the fact that these experiments may have very dangerous consequences for the conditions of man's life."

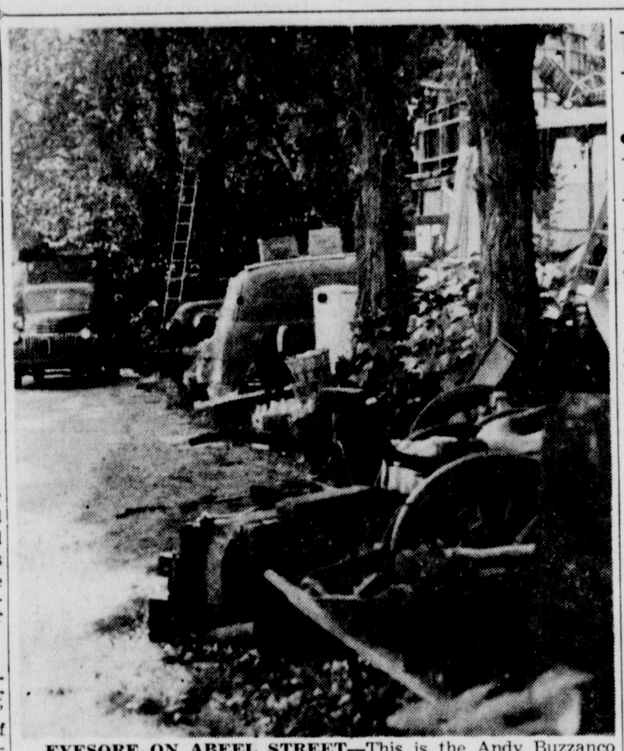

The world was in the shadow of catastrophe, Khrushchev said, because of the weight of armament and unless a disarmament plan is agreed upon "the atoms will start speaking for themselves."

American claims that the military balance of power has tipped in favor of the United States, he declared, were nonsense, and were being made only "to put heart into their own armed forces and those of their allies."

Although the "United States ranks first for its scale of war preparation," he said, there was no reason to think "the balance of strength has changed in their favor."

Buzzanco's Junk Gets Him Jailed

Fails to Comply With Zoning Law

Andy Buzzanco, who operates a junk yard on Abeel Street, was taken into custody Monday by the Ulster County Sheriff's Department and committed to jail on a charge of contempt of court. Attorney George A. Beck, chairman of the Zoning Board of the City of Kingston, announced that the commitment to jail was the outcome of a failure of Buzzanco to comply with an order of the Court requiring Buzzanco to comply with the zoning regulations of the city.

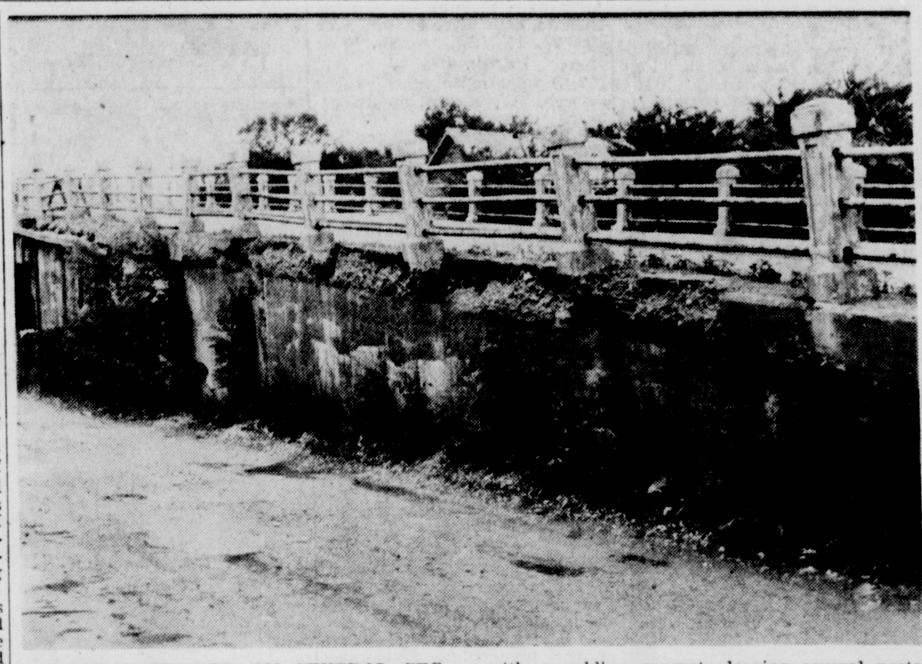

Buzzanco's jailing represents the culmination of a long legal procedure designed to enforce the decision of the Zoning Board earlier rendered against him, which decision found Buzzanco in violation of the zoning ordinance by his operation of a junk yard at 257-267 Abeel Street, and by the maintenance of vehicles and other items of personal property on Block Park, directly across the street from Buzzanco's property.

Ignores Courts

When Buzzanco failed to abide by the provisions of the Zoning Board order, application was made to the Supreme Court of the State of New York and a further order enforcing the provisions of the Zoning Board decision was secured from Justice William Deckelman in December of 1958. When Justice Deckelman's order, which upheld the decision of the Zoning Board, was ignored by Buzzanco, a motion was made in Supreme Court before Justice Hamm to hold the defendant in contempt of court. Judge Hamm decided that Buzzanco's violation of the earlier court order  was calculated to and actually did defeat, impair and prejudice the rights and remedies of the plaintiff and constituted a contempt of court.

Justice Hamm's order went on to provide that Buzzanco might purge himself of this contempt by obeying the provisions of the Zoning Board and Court order

Officials Study Opening of Span

M. Nicholas Sinacori, district state engineer at Poughkeepsie, today said his office would push for early completion of property appraisal in the Washington Avenue viaduct project area—a preliminary phase which must be completed before advertising for bids for removal of the crumbling structure and replacement of the Esopus Creek bridge.

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, who has been active in gaining earliest possible public works action on the project said today his office would move to assist in expediting the project. He was in touch with Sinacori and was told an engineer would be in the city today to inspect the structure, which has been closed to traffic since a section of concrete fell from a lower end of its western grade Sunday.

Span Is 48 Years Old

Local officials and a state engineer were due to confer early this afternoon on the reopening of the 48-year-old overpass.

Mayor John J. Schwenk, in a letter of this date to Sinacori, emphasized that the fall of the section of concrete Sunday, was hampering emergency in the city and he asked cooperation of the district engineer in speeding up the construction schedule.

The mayor informed Sinacori that the local public works department was repairing "potentially dangerous pieces of concrete and railings and constructing temporary guard rails" in the area where the concrete fell. The city was lucky, the mayor wrote, that "no one was killed or injured and there was no property damage."

Repairing Section

Repairs of a damaged area, which is a hazard to easbound traffic, is to continue for several days, Charles J. Cole, public works superintendent said today. He and Police Chief Robert F. Murphy were due to meet early this afternoon with Engineer Jeff Parkerson of the state public work's maintenance division, to discuss a plan for maintaining traffic.

Assemblyman Wilson said Sinacori informed him that Parkerson would determine the CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —A "switchboard" satellite rocketed into orbit today as a possible first step toward a space relay system for swift, worldwide transmission of radio, telephone and television signals.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced at 6:35 a.m. EST that the complex Telstar satellite was in orbit. It thundered away from Cape Canaveral at 3:35 a.m. atop a towering three-stage Thor-Delta rocket.

Transatlantic Show Possible

Officials scheduled the first communications experiments with the satellite tonight and if all goes well, American television viewers this evening will see the first live TV pictures beamed by satellite.

Within two weeks, Telstar may serve as a relay point for the first live transatlantic television show and a number of telephone and radio experiments between the United States and western Europe.

The Thor-Delta, logging its 10th straight satellite-launching success, blasted off exactly on schedule.

The exact orbital path was not immediately known but NASA officials said preliminary indications are that it would be close to the course that was sought — 575 to 3,450 miles above the earth. Officials said the orbiting time

Gets 2-4 Years For Stabbing His Mother at Home

Ronald William Van Steenburgh, 26, of Lawrenceville Street, Town of Ulster, was sentenced to a term of from two to four years at hard labor in Clinton State Prison at Dannemora, Monday afternoon by County Judge Raymond J. Mino. Van Steenburgh had entered a plea of guilty to a charge of assaulting his mother, Mrs. Hazel Van Steenburgh, 65, last March when he attacked her. She was stabbed five times with a paring knife.

Van Steenburgh was represented in court by Thomas Saccoman, who appeared when Van Steenburgh faced Judge Mino for sentence. Credit was allowed for the time Van Steenburgh has been in jail. After stabbing his mother in a fit of temper, he also stabbed to death the family dog and when sheriff's deputies arrived, Van Steenburgh appeared in the yard of the family home still armed with a kitchen knife. He, however, gave the sheriffs men no trouble.

Builders Believe Race Order Would Hurt Construction

WASHINGTON (AP)—A survey of home builders across the country indicates widespread belief among them that a presidential order barring discrimination in federally assisted housing would cause a serious drop in new construction.

The study was made for the National Association of Home Builders by C-E-I-R, a private firm of economic consultants, and its results sent to President Kennedy.

Of the 6,000 builders who responded, 42 per cent said the order would cause curtailment of their building plans. Only 1.3 per cent said it would lead to increased construction.

The association interpreted the findings as meaning about a one-third drop in new home construction and a loss of $3 billion to $6 billion, directly or indirectly, in the national output. This was based on expected production this year of 1.4 million houses and apartments.

The builders organization urged on Kennedy a "major, nationwide educational campaign to lessen misunderstanding and tension" and to foster "community acceptance of changing living patterns." It said it does not necessarily agree completely with the findings.

While campaigning for president, Kennedy criticized his predecessor, Dwight D. Eisenhower, for not issuing such an order. Asked at his news conference last week when he planned to do so, Kennedy said, "I will announce it when we think it will be a useful and appropriate time."

Senate Will Vote Next Tuesday on Medicare Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has agreed to take a crucial vote on the health care for the aged bill a week from today, dashing hopes of Democratic leaders for passage this week.

Postal Force Polled About Union Choice

Kingston Post Office Department employes expect to know "any day now" which unions will represent them on policy matters and working conditions.

All the permanent employes included in the 114 persons working in the Kingston Post Office cast votes for the union of their choice according to Leo Schupp, president of the United Federation of Post Office Clerks (AFL-CIO).

Secret Ballots Used

The Post Office Department mailed secret ballots to all of its employes who in turn submitted their vote to the regional office in New York City where the ballots will be tallied by a crew of postal inspectors and the results announced.

Local postal employes had a choice of voting for three different unions or voting for no union at all. The three unions active here are the United Federation of Post Office Clerks, approximately 50 members, the National Association of Letter Carriers, approximately 35 members, and the Association of Rural Mail Carriers, six members.

If either of the unions receive more than 50 per cent of the local vote it becomes the sole bargaining agent for the postal employes here. Any union receiving a majority of the local vote will be formally recognized but will not be the sole bargaining agent and either of the unions getting 10 per cent of the local vote will be informally recognized by the local employes meaning that its bargaining power will be limited. Care Plan Link Big Secret

Identity Could Be Tough on Doctors

REGINA, Sask. (AP) — One of the closest guarded secrets in Saskatchewan today is the identity of a handful of doctors who have signed up to work under the government's disputed compulsory medical care plan.

Because of mounting tension over the plan and the doctors' strike against it, government officials feel that the doctors who have broken with their colleagues would be in jeopardy if their names and locations were known.

Violence Possible

There is a possibility, they say, not only of reprisals and other punitive action within the medical profession, but of violence and boycotts in the communities where they are working.

So far the Medical Care Commission, which administers the compulsory medicare program, has dealt only in numbers in discussing the cooperating doctors. According to the latest commission figures, 34 of the province's 700 practicing physicians actually have signed up.

The figure hasn't changed much in the past four or five days, but claims for payment under the plan have begun to arrive in increasing numbers.

Claim Details Guarded

Details on these also are being kept secret, but it has been disclosed that about 200 claims have come in. These are from patients rather than the doctors who performed the service. Under the plan, the doctors send in their claims once a month.

The plan, designed to provide medical care for everyone, is financed by single person and family assessments and by general taxation.

The idea of permitting either patients or doctors to bill the commission was one of the compromises worked out in an attempt to meet the objection of doctors who didn't want to deal with the commission. In the latter cases, the patient simply pays the doctor and then files a claim for government reimbursement.

Decision Reserved On Checking Jury Stolen Goods Data

County Judge Raymond J. Mino on Monday reserved decision on an application made by Michael Nardone, Highland attorney, for examination of grand jury minutes in the cases of two Ulster County men accused of receiving, buying and concealing stolen property, alleged to be a part of the loot taken by Ramond H. Stanton, Poughkeepsie, over a two year period.

Application was also made for a bill of particulars to ascertain certain facts connected with the charges against Vernon O. Baker, 50, Joseph Realmutto, 50, of Highland.

Challenges Search

Nardone sought the bill of particulars in order to properly defend the men. He asked for dates and places, description and value of the alleged property, the name of owners from whom the property was taken and whether the two defendants were told the property was stolen at the time they purchased it. Nardone also challenged the right of Ulster Coun-

MOSCOW (AP)—An American political science professor told the Soviet-sponsored World Peace Congress Monday night the Soviet Union is partly to blame for continued nuclear testing.

A member of the U.S. delegation to the congress, Prof. Dale Pontius of Chicago told the 2,000 delegates in the Kremlin Hall of Congresses the Soviet Union was wrong in breaking the test moratorium last Sept. 1.

The congress, stirred to violent reaction by the latest U.S. test blast news, awaited Premier Khrushchev's expected denunciation of the thermonuclear explosion over the Pacific and his possible answer to the attack by Pontius.

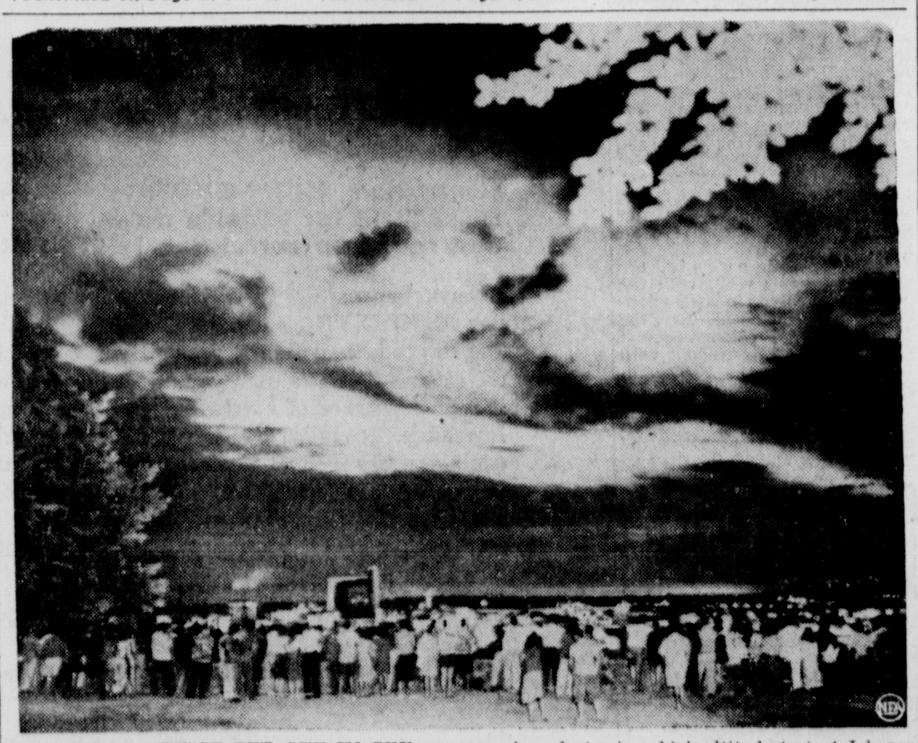

The 55-year-old educator, who teaches political science at Chicago's Roosevelt University cited statements of President Kennedy, ex-President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Gen. Douglas MacArthur—all bitterly assailed in the past by Communist spokesmen—to show their preoccupation with peace.

To the chamber which had rung with cries of "atom maniacs" and "warmongers," Pontius had this warning word:

"If you continue calling one power a 'warmonger' or a 'wild beast of imperialism', epithets used against others without denouncing your own governments when they adopt policies or pursue activities which endanger the peace and safety of the world, you may get emotional satisfaction by one-sided denunciation, but you are not helping the cause of peace.

"On the other hand we must give up epithets about the socialist countries of the world such as the

Major Surgery Due On Tito, India Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — House critics of foreign aid have sharpened their knives over the program and called for major surgery.

They indicated Monday they want to amputate aid to Yugoslavia and Poland, and to cut assistance to India.

The program's supporters countered that such an operation would be dangerous to the health of the aid program which President Kennedy has described as "vital to our security."

The carving would come in the form of amendments to the $4.7 billion authorization measure.

Debate on the bill was suspended today because of the primary election in Virginia and the major league All-Star game in Washington.

House members paid scant attention Monday to the amounts involved, aiming their major arguments at expected amendments to limit aid to India and to forbid further assistance to any Communist country.

The Senate, which has passed its foreign aid measure, cut back the administration's Indian aid request of $815 million to about $727 million.

The foreign aid program is handled annually in two bills. The authorization bill now before the House spells out the program's scope and authorizes Congress to finance it within limits. The second measure appropriates the money.

The Senate also curbed aid to Communist Poland and Yugoslavia which have been receiving U.S. assistance under the theory that it would encourage independence from Moscow.

The administration has contended that cutting off such aid would be a windfall for the Kremlin.

Russians and Chinese Scored at Conference

By STANLEY JOHNSON

MOSCOW (AP)—An American political science professor told the Soviet-sponsored World Peace Congress Monday night the Soviet Union is partly to blame for continued nuclear testing.

A member of the U.S. delegation to the congress, Prof. Dale Pontius of Chicago told the 2,000 delegates in the Kremlin Hall of Congresses the Soviet Union was wrong in breaking the test moratorium last Sept. 1.

The congress, stirred to violent reaction by the latest U.S. test blast news, awaited Premier Khrushchev's expected denunciation of the thermonuclear explosion over the Pacific and his possible answer to the attack by Pontius.

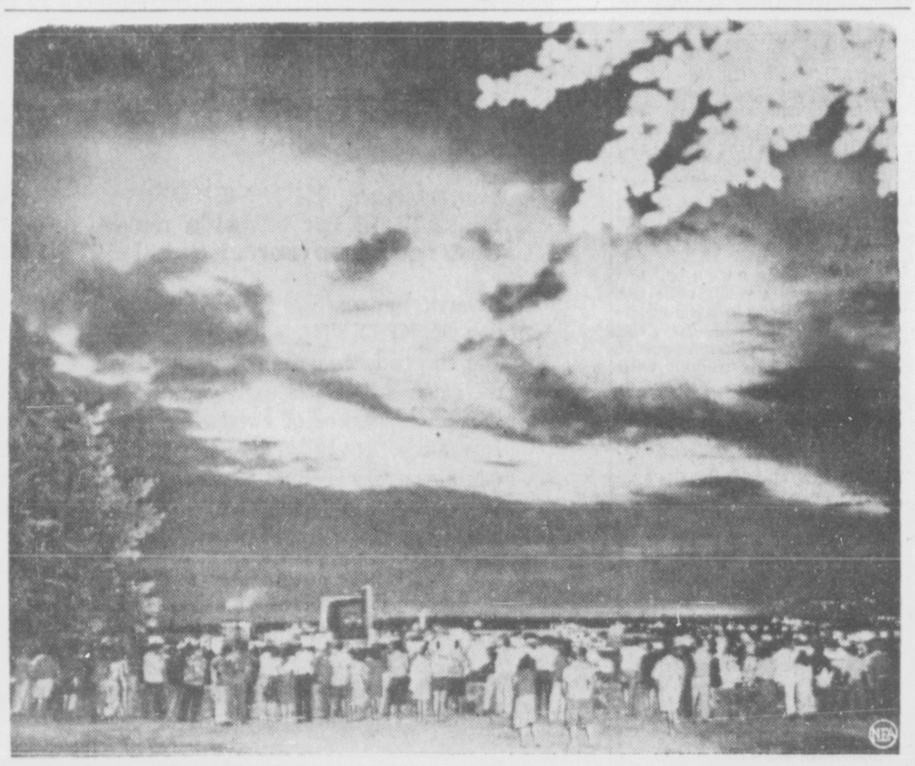

The 55-year-old educator, who teaches political science at Chicago's Roosevelt University cited statements of President Kennedy, ex-President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Gen. Douglas MacArthur—all bitterly assailed in the past by Communist spokesmen—to show their preoccupation with peace.

To the chamber which had rung with cries of "atom maniacs" and "warmongers," Pontius had this warning word:

"If you continue calling one power a 'warmonger' or a 'wild beast of imperialism', epithets used against others without denouncing your own governments when they adopt policies or pursue activities which endanger the peace and safety of the world, you may get emotional satisfaction by one-sided denunciation, but you are not helping the cause of peace.

"On the other hand we must give up epithets about the socialist countries of the world such as the

Major Surgery Due On Tito, India Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — House critics of foreign aid have sharpened their knives over the program and called for major surgery.

They indicated Monday they want to amputate aid to Yugoslavia and Poland, and to cut assistance to India.

The program's supporters countered that such an operation would be dangerous to the health of the aid program which President Kennedy has described as "vital to our security."

The carving would come in the form of amendments to the $4.7 billion authorization measure.

Debate on the bill was suspended today because of the primary election in Virginia and the major league All-Star game in Washington.

House members paid scant attention Monday to the amounts involved, aiming their major arguments at expected amendments to limit aid to India and to forbid further assistance to any Communist country.

The Senate, which has passed its foreign aid measure, cut back the administration's Indian aid request of $815 million to about $727 million.

The foreign aid program is handled annually in two bills. The authorization bill now before the House spells out the program's scope and authorizes Congress to finance it within limits. The second measure appropriates the money.

The Senate also curbed aid to Communist Poland and Yugoslavia which have been receiving U.S. assistance under the theory that it would encourage independence from Moscow.

The administration has contended that cutting off such aid would be a windfall for the Kremlin.

YMCA Day Camp Reports 1st Two Weeks Real Good

The YMCA Day Camp, situated in Shokan at the foot of Ticetonyk Mountain, have 108 boys and girls registered for the third week of camp, as reported by Camp Director Steve Orozco.

The exceptional fine weather made the first two weeks of camp real good. The ideal sunny days gave all counsellors full opportunity to carry out the camp program. Activity was great. Campers were able to have two swimming periods each day, morning and afternoons. The beginners, or "Pollywogs" made big strides in the learn to swim group. All boys and girls that attend camp for four or more weeks actually learn to swim. Campers taking advanced swimming are making progress in three different skill tests. These tests are called the fish, flying fish and the shark. Each test has ten different swimming skills, each ending with a distance swim. These same tests are taught and given in all YMCA camps throughout the country.

All campers are reported to national headquarters that pass these tests are reported to the YMCA National Aquatic office, so that a complete tabulation is made of the number of boys and girls that are taught to swim and the number that pass these special skill contests.

This week, many boys and girls are registered in camp especially to participate in the YMCA Life Saving program. This will be the first life saving program ever given at Day Camp. Steve Orozco, camp director, took a special life saving and instructors refresher course in early June so that he would have the latest instruction methods to pass on to all swimmers.

Special tournament winners in camp last week were: Darys: Paul Richards; ring toss and ping pong, Ricky Esposito; schuffleboard and basketball toss, Edward Stevenson; fishing derby, William Johnson and Garry Schantz (Each caught eight fish).

Many special events are planned for this week with the mid-season Olympic championships being planned for the fourth week of camp. Special blue red and white ribbons with gold letters and the YMCA insignia are embossed on them.

Parents desiring to send their children to the YMCA Day Camp can get all information at the YMCA office at 507 Broadway.

NEW YORK (AP)—Conformity is steadily increasing among things just as it is supposed to be the badge of this generation of persons.

In the case of things it is called standards. And close to a billion dollars a year is being spent by American industry to make standardization a way of life.

It's a conformity most people are thankful for. How would you like it if there were no standards and the light bulb you bought might not fit into the socket in your lamp?

The number of threads on a screw, the speed rating on color film, sizes of children's garments, specifications for concrete or for elevator operation—all are subjects for standards.

These are worked out methodically and with much labor—and often much dispute and time—by industrial associations, professional people, corporations making competing goods or replacement parts.

American and foreign groups seek to bring standardization into international use, with a little bit accomplished each year.

High on the list of aims of standardization are safety, interchangeability, quality and convenience.

In the home the results can be seen in building, electrical and plumbing codes. You take them for granted, but standards apply to such things as the making of deep freezers, gas stoves, radio tubes, television sets, door knobs, kitchen utensils, nails.

Construction standards guide your group's plans to build a church or your community's decisions for a new school.

Nuclear energy and data processing recently have added many standards to those long used in inustry.

Working on automotive standards are the members of the Society of Automotive Engineers. Membership skills are called upon by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and the National Electrical Manufacturers Association to set standards that affect many things you use and take for granted in your home or where you work.

Hollywood News and Views

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "If you want to be a top banana, you've got to start at the bottom of the bunch."

That was the way the song went in the Phil Silvers show "Top Banana," and it is proving true for many a lesser television banana.

Look at the former second bananas who are now making it on their own — Art Carney, now starring on Broadway and in television specials; Carl Reiner, Emmy-winning writer-producer of the Dick Van Dyke Show; Don Knotts, double Emmy winner on the Andy Griffith Show; Howard Morris acting in "Boy's Night Out"; Tom Poston, starring in "Zotz" and other films. Not to mention Tony Randall, once second fiddle to "Mr. Peepers."

All this leads into today's subject, Louis Nye. One of the funniest men around, he nonetheless had difficulty shaking his rep as second banana to Steve Allen, especially in the guise of the unctious ad man, Gordon Hathaway.

"Let me tell you, it was rugged," says Louis. "You'd be surprised how many producers would say, 'No, we can't use him—he's too Madison Avenue.'"

The comic, whose agile face can range from sour to sweet, had to convince them he was not a one-joke performer. He did a night club act in which he played everything from a hipster applying for a loan at a bank to a rich young Arab who doesn't like sand.

"I think I finally got over the fact that I can stand on my own two feet," he said. "But there were still people in the audience who yelled, 'Give us Gordon Hathaway.' I told them Gordon was dead, poor lad."

As Louis Nye, he is doing fine. He is playing a magician who guillotines Joanne Woodward in "A Woman in Julv." He'll return to the night clubs with a date in Houston next month. He plans to make a television pilot for Peter Lawford's company. He just finished a guest spot with Jack Benny for a fall show.

Off Key Notes Are Sounded by Touring Jazzmen

NEW YORK (AP) — Sixteen members of the Benny Goodman band are back in this country with some mild differences of opinion about the band's six-week tour of the Soviet Union.

Most agreed on arrival by air Monday that the tour was a success, but there were a couple of discordant notes sounded about the jazz master's choice of music.

Trumpeter John Frosk said, "We had many more modernistic arrangements with us, but Benny picked out other music because he felt that the Russians would like certain tunes."

"Benny wanted to play all of his old Carnegie Hall things—arrangements of the 30s—while we wanted to play good modern music," Frosk said.

Not among the arrivals was trumpeter Joe Wilder, who had a dispute with Goodman and refused to appear at the last concert in Moscow. He is now in Sweden.

Goodman himself did not return with the 16, but is on a visit to London.

Skindiver Dies While Searching For Skindiver

WESTPORT, N.Y. (AP) — A skindiver drowned Monday while taking part in a futile search in Lake Champlain for another skindiver who disappeared Saturday.

Paul Davignon, 30, of Schenectady, died while diving in about 160 feet of water during the search for the body of Bruce Piper, 18, of Chappaqua. Davignon's body was recovered.

Leonard Jones, 42, of Scotia, who was with Davignon, told police they had risen to within 80 feet of the surface to rest. Jones then surfaced, but Davignon did not, police said.

Jones dived again and found Davignon's body and skin-diving equipment, police reported.

William Medd, 19, of Manhasset, said Piper's air supply apparently gave out during their dive together Saturday. He said he gave Piper a breath from his own supply, and Piper headed toward the surface.

When Medd surfaced, he said, Piper was not in sight.

Hollywood News and Views

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "If you want to be a top banana, you've got to start at the bottom of the bunch."

That was the way the song went in the Phil Silvers show "Top Banana," and it is proving true for many a lesser television banana.

Look at the former second bananas who are now making it on their own — Art Carney, now starring on Broadway and in television specials; Carl Reiner, Emmy-winning writer-producer of the Dick Van Dyke Show; Don Knotts, double Emmy winner on the Andy Griffith Show; Howard Morris acting in "Boy's Night Out"; Tom Poston, starring in "Zotz" and other films. Not to mention Tony Randall, once second fiddle to "Mr. Peepers."

All this leads into today's subject, Louis Nye. One of the funniest men around, he nonetheless had difficulty shaking his rep as second banana to Steve Allen, especially in the guise of the unctious ad man, Gordon Hathaway.

"Let me tell you, it was rugged," says Louis. "You'd be surprised how many producers would say, 'No, we can't use him—he's too Madison Avenue.'"

The comic, whose agile face can range from sour to sweet, had to convince them he was not a one-joke performer. He did a night club act in which he played everything from a hipster applying for a loan at a bank to a rich young Arab who doesn't like sand.

"I think I finally got over the fact that I can stand on my own two feet," he said. "But there were still people in the audience who yelled, 'Give us Gordon Hathaway.' I told them Gordon was dead, poor lad."

As Louis Nye, he is doing fine. He is playing a magician who guillotines Joanne Woodward in "A Woman in July." He'll return to the night clubs with a date in Houston next month. He plans to make a television pilot for Peter Lawford's company. He just finished a guest spot with Jack Benny for a fall show.

Off Key Notes Are Sounded by Touring Jazzmen

NEW YORK (AP) — Sixteen members of the Benny Goodman band are back in this country with some mild differences of opinion about the band's six-week tour of the Soviet Union.

Most agreed on arrival by air Monday that the tour was a success, but there were a couple of discordant notes sounded about the jazz master's choice of music.

Trumpeter John Frosk said, "We had many more modernistic arrangements with us, but Benny picked out other music because he felt that the Russians would like certain tunes."

"Benny wanted to play all of his old Carnegie Hall things—arrangements of the 30s—while we wanted to play good modern music," Frosk said.

Not among the arrivals was trumpeter Joe Wilder, who had a dispute with Goodman and refused to appear at the last concert in Moscow. He is now in Sweden.

Goodman himself did not return with the 16, but is on a visit to London.

Skindiver Dies While Searching For Skindiver

WESTPORT, N.Y. (AP) — A skindiver drowned Monday while taking part in a futile search in Lake Champlain for another skindiver who disappeared Saturday.

ACCORD WITH MEXICO

President Kennedy's visit to Mexico promises to have a much stronger effect on improvement of U. S.-Mexican relations than many observers had anticipated. There are indications that Mexicans have been much heartened, not only by agreement on a substantial loan for agricultural development, but also by the cordial atmosphere in which talks between Mr. Kennedy and President Adolfo Lopez Mateos were conducted.

In this Mexicans see the promise of closer harmony on some of the problems—notably those related to price stabilization on basic commodities including coffee, sugar, zinc and lead—that are as yet unresolved. Informed Mexicans also hope—a hope which must be shared by Americans who understand the importance of Latin American development — that Mexico will support the Alliance for Progress even more strongly.

It is significant that these hopes come at a time when relations between the two countries have been deteriorating. In recent months the coldness has rapidly increased. Now there is a reasonable expectation that the trend can be reversed.

No small source of such expectation is the interim solution agreed to on the saline water dispute. This arose because Mexicali Valley land is being ruined by excessively saline irrigation water from the Colorado River. The United States is clearly responsible for the high salinity. The agreement will ease present friction on the matter, and if the United States goes ahead with desalinization — as it should, even though this will be expensive — the source of friction will be removed entirely.

Not all the benefits will accure to the Mexicans. By righting a wrong for which we are responsible, and also by working toward agreement on other problems, we will strengthen our ties with a nation that can have great influence on the trend of events in Latin America. That will be eminently worthwhile.

CURBING THE FUMES

Though not everyone is entranced by the news that 1963 model cars are going to be longer and flashier than ever, one item about them should win universal favor. A device to recirculate exhaust fumes and thus reduce air pollution will be standard equipment on all autos coming off American assembly lines.

One remarkable thing about this crankcase ventilating device is that it costs only about four dollars. Considering that, it is even more of a mystery why Detroit had to be prodded, by pleas and threats, into installing this equipment. It is nevertheless gratifying that future cars will have the device.

The fumes recirculator has not yet been perfected. It reduces air pollution by only about 35 per cent. But it is a big step toward cutting down on the amount of noxious gases in our towns and cities.

THE USES OF LEISURE

The man who received a paid vacation was something of a rarity a generation or two past. As recently as 1940, only one out of four unionized workers enjoyed vacations with pay. By now almost all office and factory workers get a paid vacation. This sums up a remarkable change that has occurred in the general United States work pattern. The ramifications of that change go deep into our whole social structure.

Paid vacations are not all that is encompassed in this change. During the past 20 years the work week also has declined gradually and there has been an increase both in the length of vacations and in the number of holidays. As a result, says an article by Peter Henle in the Monthly Labor Review, the average worker in 1960 had some 155 hours more paid leisure time per year than was true in 1940. The effects on the living patterns of most families have been striking. Travel has increased, and much more time is devoted to sports and other recreational activities.

All this is doubtless to the good, but the picture lacks something. There is comparatively much less indication that Americans are spending more leisure time in what might be called creative ways. Yet it is down this road that we must go if the leisure won for us by technology is to be used for nothing better than amusement.

Leisure time is going to increase still more, probably through more days off rather than through further reduction of the work day. Recreation, sports, travel are pleasant and diverting, but they are not the only goal in life. As leisure time grows, Americans should devote more thought to using it in ways that will develop their full potential as human beings in a free society.

BROKEN HOMES

A humorist who apparently is a lawyer because he writes me on the stationery of a Bar Association, sends me this letter which is undoubtedly meant to be a rebuttal of the Supreme Court's attempt to throw God out of the tax-supported schools:

"My good friend is writing this for me.

"You see, I'm Johnny and can't read or write. The cops say, I'm a juvenile delinquent. The social worker says I'm the product of a broken home and a culturally deprived neighborhood. Da Teach says I'm an educational problem and almost impossible.

"A funny thing happened before school broke up. I asked Da Teach: 'Who is God and why should we trust in Him?'

"Da Teach said it's an expression and can't be answered in class because of the Supreme Court."

I was not thinking of the Supreme Court at the moment. It rather occurred to me that I had recently met several children of complex families—you know, mother and father are such good friends but each has a different spouse and a new family. So there are many mothers and stepmothers and step-fathers and step-brothers and step-sisters and—Oh! to hell with it!

So these children have never had the warmth and friendship of a loving family. When they were young, there was always someone to look after them, particularly if the parents were well off. If there was no money, the children somehow grew up on the streets or among relatives.

There was no warmth for the child, for the mother had her own problems, especially the problem of holding on to a man who had a sharp eye and wandering feet. That's how she got him, in the first place. And he who wearied of No. 1., also wearied of No. 2., and in time No. 3., because life is like that. He had a wearying nature. And the lady of the house could not let a brat come between her and her happiness. After all, she is entitled to happiness. Everybody is.

This has become one of America's major problems. This country suffers from excessive divorce; from broken homes; from delinquent children, rich as well as poor, because they lack parental direction; from pre-marital sex relations which have curious psychological overtones; from homosexuality which needs a more accurate and honest study than has yet appeared.

In a word, the problems of love and marriage, of delinquency as a product of the broken home need study not only by a statistic-loving sociologist but by a moral philosopher if there are any.

It is possible these days to come across illigitimate children who tell their tales with great glee. They are covering up a great sorrow and a greater loss. Such a person needs a friend, an honest friend who will try to fill a void. For the greatest void of all is that there is no one to talk to, no one who can be approached frankly and honestly.

A child brought up in a quiet, normal home, where father and mother love each other without too much ado, has before it a constant example of what can make for happiness. A child, however, who is brought up in a family where the parents are watching each other, preparing for divorces and such, becomes very keen and sharp. Not understanding, the child paints an imaginary picture which may be very false but which colors the child's life forever.

Among the rich, such children's lives are often wrecked by the chit-chat of governesses and other servants who say what they choose and also by the child being left alone too much. It is psychological murder.

Years ago, I made a little study, for my own purposes, of a small group of millionaire Communists. It does not matter whether they were Communists or socialists or Christian missionaries among the Zulus. They were sad, young people who hated a father or a mother, or who had a guilt complex concerning the way the family fortune was made, or who had had such a lonely childhood as no Orphan Annie could have known.

President Kennedy often emphasizes physical fitness, but that is hardly enough to make a strong nation. We need to strengthen the morale and the morals of the family if we are to survive as a great nation.

Want to Stop Smoking? Use Your Won't Power!

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—Although a "cigarette cough" is the only bad effect I note from smoking, I want to kick the habit and have been advised to take a drug whose name escapes me. Can you tell me what this is and whether it is effective and harmless?

A—The only safe and effective measure you can use to kick the cigarette habit is WILL POWER. If you haven't got it, you can't buy it.

Q—Why do you continue to recommend aspirin alone for pain relief? Isn't it better to use a combination of pain killers? Surely the effect of two or three similar products must be better than that of any single one.

A—Your logic may be good but your pharmacology is not. Dose for dose, aspirin is as effective as any combination of pain killers. However, if you compare the action of a 5-grain aspirin tablet with a combination in which each of three ingredients is present in 3-grain dosage, the combination may have a superior effect.

But that's not the main reason for favoring a single product when a single product will do the trick. By using additional products, you expose the patient to additional risks from side effects and even poisoning.

Thus, acetophenetidin (phenacetin) is often used with aspirin. Yet a recent study made in Sweden revealed that, of 1330 workers who regularly took phenacetin for the relief of arthritis or sciatica, almost one-third had signs of kidney damage. And, of those who were "acetophenetidin eaters" for a considerable period of time, approximately a half had disturbances of kidney function—disturbances of sufficient severity to have contributed to death in 27 instances.

As to the other substances used with aspirin, acetanilid may act as a depressant to the heart. Aminopyrine has been known to cause serious damage to blood cells.

Maybe, in view of these facts, you'll agree it is better to stick to aspirin.

Q—Is it necessary to restrict the use of salt during pregnancy?

A—Not if your pregnancy is progressing normally. However, if your doctor finds signs of beginning trouble (pre-eclampsia), such as a rising level of blood pressure, albumen in the urine or swelling of fingers and feet, he will want to have you cut down on your intake of salt.

Washington News

By PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON—(NEA) — Along with all the Civil War centennial observances this year, they are celebrating in the Capital and in every state and territory the 100th anniversary of President Abraham Lincoln's signing of the Morrill Act.

This created the land grant college system. There are 68 of these land grant, state institutions today. They have over 600,000 resident and 150,000 extension course students—nearly 20 per cent of total enrollment.

ORIGINALLY these colleges of agriculture and mechanical arts were financed by the income from grants of federal lands to the states. Land grant colleges now get 90 per cent of their income from the states. But they also get about $15 million a year in educational grants from the federal government, plus $110 million from Department of Agriculture for experiment stations and extension work.

Grown from a little beginning, here is federal aid to higher education in a big way. And no one dares oppose it.

But in connection with the Morrill Act centennial ceremonies, one of the most significant details is that it was President Lincoln who signed this legislation, although his predecessor, James Buchanan, had vetoed it.

THIS IS ONLY ONE of many pieces of progressive legislation which the Civil War president initiated or approved and for which he is given little remembered credit. Most people think of Lincoln as the martyred president who held the Union together, freed the slaves and delivered the Gettysburg address. That is enough glory for any man but Lincoln introduced many lasting reforms in U.S. government.

He also signed the legislation which created the United States Department of Agriculture, likewise in 1862. The centennial anniversary of this event is now being observed more in sorrow and anguish by Senator McClellan's committee investigation of the Billie Sol Estes case.

Still, this much-maligned department of government has played its part in making American agriculture the most productive in the world. For this, it—and President Lincoln—deserve some credit.

THE THIRD GREAT contribution which President Lincoln made to United States agriculture was his signing of the Homestead Ace of 1862, which speeded development of the West. By the end of the Civil War, 2.4 million acres had been settled, creating 15,000 new farms of 160 acres each.

It was in Lincoln's administration, too, that decision was made to build the first transcontinental railroad, west from Omaha. That was also financed by huge grants of federal lands to the railroads.

In 1863 President Lincoln signed a law which established the United States national banking system. This was done primarily to help finance the war effort. Banks were required to hold a third of their funds in United States securities.

Greenbacks were issued against this reserve. They fluctuated in value, but the much more inflationary state bank notes were driven out of circulation by a 10 per cent tax.

PRESIDENT LINCOLN also imposed the first income tax laws in the United States, including even withholding taxes on income at the source of payment. Both systems still work well—as most taxpayers know. Extension of withholding taxes to interest and dividend payments is the issue today.

When recruiting systems for the Northern armies broke down and the state militia was found to be poorly trained, President Lincoln in 1863 signed the first United States draft act. True, it didn't work very well. After Gettysburg there were draft riots in New York which had to be put down by federal troops really needed to fight the war.

Volunteers — including bounty jumpers who deserted to reenlist for a cash bonus — furnished much of the Civil War manpower. But the draft system was established in America. It was used in both world wars and even in today's so-called peaceful world.

Lincoln-era legislation was remarkable in its breadth and permanence. It helped sustain the economy and laid the foundations for the great industrial boom that came later.

Aiding Underdeveloped: But Who Foots the Bill?

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

GENEVA — There's a curious assumption prevalent at the conference of the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations which has just opened here. It is that peace lies ahead. Nobody doubts the possibility of war, but almost everybody discounts the probability.

Planning, therefore, becomes ambitious. The "development decade" in the world, which is theme of discussion here, involves a global concept of such challenging scope that it defies the imagination. The talk, of course, is of the help that the "better developed" countries can give to the "underdeveloped." But, as has often been pointed out, even some of the larger countries like the United States do not concede that they have reached the top stage of their development. Likewise, these so-called "underdeveloped" areas do not all need the same kind of aid or technical assistance, since their resources and aptitudes differ. The word that Paul Hoffman, managing director of the UN Special Fund, uses to describe the task tactfully is "modernization."

But in taking a look around the world, some practicalities come in conflict with mere theory. Where is the money to come from? The plans of the specialized UN agencies in the fields of economic and scientific and social development—which are together beginning a month's intensive study here of these phases—cannot be fulfilled unless the financial sinews are available. The main answer is that money will come largely from "soft" loans—long-term and at low interest—and from "hard loans that are backed by ample security. To supplement this, governments and peoples will make outright contributions, especially in furnishing funds for technical aid and assistance in the social and economic fields.

Ignorant Countries

One is impressed not only by the enormity of the undertaking, but by the lack of knowledge within most countries as to how they really can be helped and what can be done to promote natural and normal trade and production.

Nearly every country has resources to develop and a rapidly growing population to think about—its potential demand for goods and services and the training needed to build some sort of sustaining economy.

There is no harm in abstract thinking or in objective discussions. It is, in fact, reassuring to find the world turning from talk about fallout shelters and possible devastation by nuclear war to economic studies and discussions about how to make the different countries of the world more productive of goods and services. This is a healthy turn.

Stage of Evolution

There is a tendency, of course, to think in terms of continents. President Kennedy mentioned this in his 4th of July address. Much stress is laid upon it in the discussions here. But as one observer pointed out, Geography unfortunately doesn't solve the problem. Some countries within one continent do not have the same requirement as others, and there may be more in common between nations in Africa which have reached a certain stage of development and certain states in Central America, than between the larger and smaller countries in each continent. It is the stage of evolution, rather than the location of the countries, that becomes germane to any overall plan of organized assistance.

The need for economic help nearly everywhere is conceded. Acting Secretary General U Thant said this week to the meeting of the U.N.'s Economic and Social Council:

"The United Nations development decade is an appeal to our faith in the preservation and in the continuation of economic and social progress by investing in the younger generations who, in addition to education and training, require help to fight malnutrition and disease. Together with investment in industry, large and small, in natural resources and in transport, investment in less-developed countries during the decade must provide for the construction of more than 20 million dwellings in less-developed areas and for an increase in food supplies of 50 per cent.

Minimum Needs

"In those same countries, expenditure for public services must double over the period, and expenditures on education must rise to an annual rate of 4 per cent of the national product by the end of the decade. All this in order to meet minimum requirements so interrelated that failure to reach one target in time may jeopardize advances on all other fronts."

While the continuance of suffering and poverty is deplorable it is an open question whether mere grants of charity will do the job when what really is needed is the training and education of the persons with the best brains in every country, so that there can slowly but surely be brought into being systems of domestic development and production of goods and services suitable for each people's needs. There has been a considerable emphassis here on the importance of making each country eventually self-reliant.

The subject is so far-reaching that, after listening to the generalities of it for several days here, one is impressed not only with the challenge of the task but the opportunities for bilateral and multilateral trade in the world. That's why the European "common market" idea has caught the imagination of people everywhere. For it is based on the conviction that there is a way for countries to trade with one another fairly and profitably and thus to continue to live with each other peaceably, even in a nuclear age.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

I was just asked by a member of one of the city departments when the first bus ran in Kingston or when the trolley cars stopped running. The first bus service in Kingston started on Sunday, January 17, 1926, when the local trolley road placed three buses on their routes. Two went on the through route and the other one on the loop through the uptown section.

Perhaps some of the old timers will recall that famous year of 1926 during the coal shortage. Going back to the buses it seems they promised a 15-minute schedule, but could not keep to it and it took them a half an hour to cover their route. The bus on the uptown loop broke down altogether in the late afternoon and so service to that section had to be discontinued temporarily. It seems that new buses were ordered by the trolley road and they expected that once they got on the route in some three weeks from then they could stick to their schedule. There is also an item that I found saying that the Common Council granted a petition of the local trolley road to substitute buses for trolley cars, that is dated May, 1930. I do not know when the tracks were pulled up. Personally I think if we still had the tracks and in good condition and had summer trolley cars, and they were five cents a ride many people would go up and down town just for the ride and perhaps even stop to shop. In my humble estimation nothing could replace the nickle summer trolley cars. Remember when the Kingston city trolley cars in the summer, bound for Kingston Point carried a blue flag so that their many customers would know which trolley car to take.

Going back to July 8, 1919, when fare was six cents on the summer trolley cars, they were running four trolley cars for July 4th, two on each line, and even then they could not handle the passengers to Kingston Point Park. It was said, every car that left for home was also crowded. It is said the first trolley car to make a trip to Kingston Point Park was on July 11, 1896. In the real early days, the Colonial Line or (Hasbrouck Ave. line,) as we called it, had lines running through Delaware avenue to the gates of the park at Kingston Point. The Broadway line did not go to the park and later made arrangements to run over the former Ulster and Delaware railroad tracks on the Strand and over the long trestle to the Hudson River Day Line pier.

The horse cars ran from 1866 from Rondout to Kingston with a toll gate midway. It is said the horse cars, of which the only pictures I ever saw were lithograph sketches in the Ulster County Atlas of 1875, although it is said they ran for some 27 years before they gave way to electric trolleys. It is said that Jimmy Norton worked both on the horse-cars and later on the electric trolley cars so perhaps his family has a picture of him on a horse car. Dave Brown who was a superintendent of the City Hall for many years was a very popular motorman on the trolley road. In January of 1902 the two Kingston City trolley and the Colonial lines consolidated. No doubt conductors and motormen remember many incidents of those days of Kingston city trolley cars, especially during summer months on rush weekends.

ACCORD WITH MEXICO

President Kennedy's visit to Mexico promises to have a much stronger effect on improvement of U. S.-Mexican relations than many observers had anticipated. There are indications that Mexicans have been much heartened, not only by agreement on a substantial loan for agricultural development, but also by the cordial atmosphere in which talks between Mr. Kennedy and President Adolfo Lopez Mateos were conducted.

In this Mexicans see the promise of closer harmony on some of the problems—notably those related to price stabilization on basic commodities including coffee, sugar, zinc and lead—that are as yet unresolved. Informed Mexicans also hope—a hope which must be shared by Americans who understand the importance of Latin American development — that Mexico will support the Alliance for Progress even more strongly.

It is significant that these hopes come at a time when relations between the two countries have been deteriorating. In recent months the coldness has rapidly increased. Now there is a reasonable expectation that the trend can be reversed.

No small source of such expectation is the interim solution agreed to on the saline water dispute. This arose because Mexicali Valley land is being ruined by excessively saline irrigation water from the Colorado River. The United States is clearly responsible for the high salinity. The agreement will ease present friction on the matter, and if the United States goes ahead with desalinization — as it should, even though this will be expensive — the source of friction will be removed entirely.

Not all the benefits will accure to the Mexicans. By righting a wrong for which we are responsible, and also by working toward agreement on other problems, we will strengthen our ties with a nation that can have great influence on the trend of events in Latin America. That will be eminently worthwhile.

CURBING THE FUMES

Though not everyone is entranced by the news that 1963 model cars are going to be longer and flashier than ever, one item about them should win universal favor. A device to recirculate exhaust fumes and thus reduce air pollution will be standard equipment on all autos coming off American assembly lines.

One remarkable thing about this crankcase ventilating device is that it costs only about four dollars. Considering that, it is even more of a mystery why Detroit had to be prodded, by pleas and threats, into installing this equipment. It is nevertheless gratifying that future cars will have the device.

The fumes recirculator has not yet been perfected. It reduces air pollution by only about 35 per cent. But it is a big step toward cutting down on the amount of noxious gases in our towns and cities.

THE USES OF LEISURE

The man who received a paid vacation was something of a rarity a generation or two past. As recently as 1940, only one out of four unionized workers enjoyed vacations with pay. By now almost all office and factory workers get a paid vacation. This sums up a remarkable change that has occurred in the general United States work pattern. The ramifications of that change go deep into our whole social structure.

Paid vacations are not all that is encompassed in this change. During the past 20 years the work week also has declined gradually and there has been an increase both in the length of vacations and in the number of holidays. As a result, says an article by Peter Henle in the Monthly Labor Review, the average worker in 1960 had some 155 hours more paid leisure time per year than was true in 1940. The effects on the living patterns of most families have been striking. Travel has increased, and much more time is devoted to sports and other recreational activities.

All this is doubtless to the good, but the picture lacks something. There is comparatively much less indication that Americans are spending more leisure time in what might be called creative ways. Yet it is down this road that we must go if the leisure won for us by technology is to be used for nothing better than amusement.

Leisure time is going to increase still more, probably through more days off rather than through further reduction of the work day. Recreation, sports, travel are pleasant and diverting, but they are not the only goal in life. As leisure time grows, Americans should devote more thought to using it in ways that will develop their full potential as human beings in a free society.

BROKEN HOMES

A humorist who apparently is a lawyer because he writes me on the stationery of a Bar Association, sends me this letter which is undoubtedly meant to be a rebuttal of the Supreme Court's attempt to throw God out of the tax-supported schools:

"My good friend is writing this for me.

"You see, I'm Johnny and can't read or write. The cops say, I'm a juvenile delinquent. The social worker says I'm the product of a broken home and a culturally deprived neighborhood. Da Teach says I'm an educational problem and almost impossible.

"A funny thing happened before school broke up. I asked Da Teach: 'Who is God and why should we trust in Him?'

"Da Teach said it's an expression and can't be answered in class because of the Supreme Court."

I was not thinking of the Supreme Court at the moment. It rather occurred to me that I had recently met several children of complex families—you know, mother and father are such good friends but each has a different spouse and a new family. So there are many mothers and step-mothers and step-fathers and step-brothers and step-sisters and—Oh! to hell with it!

So these children have never had the warmth and friendship of a loving family. When they were young, there was always someone to look after them, particularly if the parents were well off. If there was no money, the children somehow grew up on the streets or among relatives.

There was no warmth for the child, for the mother had her own problems, especially the problem of holding on to a man who had a sharp eye and wandering feet. That's how she got him, in the first place. And he who wearied of No. 1., also wearied of No. 2., and in time No. 3., because life is like that. He had a wearying nature. And the lady of the house could not let a brat come between her and her happiness. After all, she is entitled to happiness. Everybody is.

This has become one of America's major problems. This country suffers from excessive divorce; from broken homes; from delinquent children, rich as well as poor, because they lack parental direction; from pre-marital sex relations which have curious psychological overtones; from homosexuality which needs a more accurate and honest study than has yet appeared.

In a word, the problems of love and marriage, of delinquency as a product of the broken home need study not only by a statistic-loving sociologist but by a moral philosopher if there are any.

It is possible these days to come across illigitimate children who tell their tales with great glee. They are covering up a great sorrow and a greater loss. Such a person needs a friend, an honest friend who will try to fill a void. For the greatest void of all is that there is no one to talk to, no one who can be approached frankly and honestly.

A child brought up in a quiet, normal home, where father and mother love each other without too much ado, has before it a constant example of what can make for happiness. A child, however, who is brought up in a family where the parents are watching each other, preparing for divorces and such, becomes very keen and sharp. Not understanding, the child paints an imaginary picture which may be very false but which colors the child's life forever.

Among the rich, such children's lives are often wrecked by the chit-chat of governesses and other servants who say what they choose and also by the child being left alone too much. It is psychological murder.

Years ago, I made a little study, for my own purposes, of a small group of millionaire Communists. It does not matter whether they were Communists or socialists or Christian missionaries among the Zulus. They were sad, young people who hated a father or a mother, or who had a guilt complex concerning the way the family fortune was made, or who had had such a lonely childhood as no Orphan Annie could have known.

President Kennedy often emphasizes physical fitness, but that is hardly enough to make a strong nation. We need to strengthen the morale and the morals of the family if we are to survive as a great nation.

Want to Stop Smoking? Use Your Won't Power!

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—Although a "cigarette cough" is the only bad effect I note from smoking, I want to kick the habit and have been advised to take a drug whose name escapes me. Can you tell me what this is and whether it is effective and harmless?

A—The only safe and effective measure you can use to kick the cigarette habit is WILL POWER. If you haven't got it, you can't buy it.

Q—Why do you continue to recommend aspirin alone for pain relief? Isn't it better to use a combination of pain killers? Surely the effect of two or three similar products must be better than that of any single one.

A—Your logic may be good but your pharmacology is not. Dose for dose, aspirin is as effective as any combination of pain killers. However, if you compare the action of a 5-grain aspirin tablet with a combination in which each of three ingredients is present in 3-grain dosage, the combination may have a superior effect.

But that's not the main reason for favoring a single product when a single product will do the trick. By using additional products, you expose the patient to additional risks from side effects and even poisoning.

Thus, acetophenetidin (phenacetin) is often used with aspirin. Yet a recent study made in Sweden revealed that, of 1330 workers who regularly took phenacetin for the relief of arthritis or sciatica, almost one-third had signs of kidney damage. And, of those who were "acetophenetidin eaters" for a considerable period of time, approximately a half had disturbances of kidney function—disturbances of sufficient severity to have contributed to death in 27 instances.

As to the other substances used with aspirin, acetanilid may act as a depressant to the heart. Aminopyrine has been known to cause serious damage to blood cells.

Maybe, in view of these facts, you'll agree it is better to stick to aspirin.

Q—Is it necessary to restrict the use of salt during pregnancy?

A—Not if your pregnancy is progressing normally. However, if your doctor finds signs of beginning trouble (pre-eclampsia), such as a rising level of blood pressure, albumen in the urine or swelling of fingers and feet, he will want to have you cut down on your intake of salt.

Washington News

By PETER EDSON
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON—(NEA) — Along with all the Civil War centennial observances this year, they are celebrating in the Capital and in every state and territory the 100th anniversary of President Abraham Lincoln's signing of the Morrill Act.

This created the land grant college system. There are 68 of these land grant, state institutions today. They have over 600,000 resident and 150,000 extension course students—nearly 20 per cent of total enrollment.

ORIGINALLY these colleges of agriculture and mechanical arts were financed by the income from grants of federal lands to the states. Land grant colleges now get 90 per cent of their income from the states. But they also get about $15 million a year in educational grants from the federal government, plus $110 million from Department of Agriculture for experiment stations and extension work.

Grown from a little beginning, here is federal aid to higher education in a big way. And no one dares oppose it.

But in connection with the Morrill Act centennial ceremonies, one of the most significant details is that it was President Lincoln who signed this legislation, although his predecessor, James Buchanan, had vetoed it.

THIS IS ONLY ONE of many pieces of progressive legislation which the Civil War president initiated or approved and for which he is given little remembered credit. Most people think of Lincoln as the martyred president who held the Union together, freed the slaves and delivered the Gettysburg address. That is enough glory for any man but Lincoln introduced many lasting reforms in U.S. government.

He also signed the legislation which created the United States Department of Agriculture, likewise in 1862. The centennial anniversary of this event is now being observed more in sorrow and anguish by Senator McClellan's committee investigation of the Billie Sol Estes case.

Still, this much-maligned department of government has played its part in making American agriculture the most productive in the world. For this, it—and President Lincoln—deserve some credit.

THE THIRD GREAT contribution which President Lincoln made to United States agriculture was his signing of the Homestead Ace of 1862, which speeded development of the West. By the end of the Civil War, 2.4 million acres had been settled, creating 15,000 new farms of 160 acres each.

It was in Lincoln's administration, too, that decision was made to build the first transcontinental railroad, west from Omaha. That was also financed by huge grants of federal lands to the railroads.

In 1863 President Lincoln signed a law which established the United States national banking system. This was done primarily to help finance the war effort. Banks were required to hold a third of their funds in United States securities.

Greenbacks were issued against this reserve. They fluctuated in value, but the much more inflationary state bank notes were driven out of circulation by a 10 per cent tax.

PRESIDENT LINCOLN also imposed the first income tax laws in the United States, including even withholding taxes on income at the source of payment. Both systems still work well—as most taxpayers know. Extension of withholding taxes to interest and dividend payments is the issue today.

When recruiting systems for the Northern armies broke down and the state militia was found to be poorly trained, President Lincoln in 1863 signed the first United States draft act. True, it didn't work very well. After Gettysburg there were draft riots in New York which had to be put down by federal troops really needed to fight the war.

Volunteers — including bounty jumpers who deserted to reenlist for a cash bonus — furnished much of the Civil War manpower. But the draft system was established in America. It was used in both world wars and even in today's so-called peaceful world.

Lincoln-era legislation was remarkable in its breadth and permanence. It helped sustain the economy and laid the foundations for the great industrial boom that came later.

Aiding Underdeveloped: But Who Foots the Bill?

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

GENEVA — There's a curious assumption prevalent at the conference of the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations which has just opened here. It is that peace lies ahead. Nobody doubts the possibility of war, but almost everybody discounts the probability.

Planning, therefore, becomes ambitious. The "development decade" in the world, which is theme of discussion here, involves a global concept of such challenging scope that it defies the imagination. The talk, of course, is of the help that the "better developed" countries can give to the "underdeveloped." But, as has often been pointed out, even some of the larger countries like the United States do not concede that they have reached the top stage of their development. Likewise, these so-called "underdeveloped" areas do not all need the same kind of aid or technical assistance, since their resources and aptitudes differ. The word that Paul Hoffman, managing director of the UN Special Fund, uses to describe the task tactfully is "modernization."

But in taking a look around the world, some practicalities come in conflict with mere theory. Where is the money to come from? The plans of the specialized UN agencies in the fields of economic and scientific and social development—which are together beginning a month's intensive study here of these phases—cannot be fulfilled unless the financial sinews are available. The main answer is that money will come largely from "soft" loans—long-term and at low interest—and from "hard loans that are backed by ample security. To supplement this, governments and peoples will make outright contributions, especially in furnishing funds for technical aid and assistance in the social and economic fields.

Ignorant Countries

One is impressed not only by the enormity of the undertaking, but by the lack of knowledge within most countries as to how they really can be helped and what can be done to promote natural and normal trade and production.

Nearly every country has resources to develop and a rapidly growing population to think about—its potential demand for goods and services and the training needed to build some sort of sustaining economy.

There is no harm in abstract thinking or in objective discussions. It is, in fact, reassuring to find the world turning from talk about fallout shelters and possible devastation by nuclear war to economic studies and discussions about how to make the different countries of the world more productive of goods and services. This is a healthy turn.

Stage of Evolution

There is a tendency, of course, to think in terms of continents. President Kennedy mentioned this in his 4th of July address. Much stress is laid upon it in the discussions here. But as one observer pointed out, Geography unfortunately doesn't solve the problem. Some countries within one continent do not have the same requirement as others, and there may be more in common between nations in Africa which have reached a certain stage of development and certain states in Central America, than between the larger and smaller countries in each continent. It is the stage of evolution, rather than the location of the countries, that becomes germane to any overall plan of organized assistance.

The need for economic help nearly everywhere is conceded. Acting Secretary General U Thant said this week to the meeting of the U.N.'s Economic and Social Council:

"The United Nations development decade is an appeal to our faith in the preservation and in the continuation of economic and social progress by investing in the younger generations who, in addition to education and training, require help to fight malnutrition and disease. Together with investment in industry, large and small, in natural resources and in transport, investment in less-developed countries during the decade must provide for the construction of more than 20 million dwellings in less-developed areas and for an increase in food supplies of 50 per cent.

Minimum Needs

"In those same countries, expenditure for public services must double over the period, and expenditures on education must rise to an annual rate of 4 per cent of the national product by the end of the decade. All this in order to meet minimum requirements so interrelated that failure to reach one target in time may jeopardize advances on all other fronts."

While the continuance of suffering and poverty is deplorable it is an open question whether mere grants of charity will do the job when what really is needed is the training and education of the persons with the best brains in every country, so that there can slowly but surely be brought into being systems of domestic development and production of goods and services suitable for each people's needs. There has been a considerable emphassis here on the importance of making each country eventually self-reliant.

The subject is so far-reaching that, after listening to the generalities of it for several days here, one is impressed not only with the challenge of the task but the opportunities for bilateral and multilateral trade in the world. That's why the European "common market" idea has caught the imagination of people everywhere. For it is based on the conviction that there is a way for countries to trade with one another fairly and profitably and thus to continue to live with each other peaceably, even in a nuclear age.

So They Say..

At least half the bridegrooms I marry smell like a brewery. If I had a couple of whiskies or a few beers as a stiffener before taking the service, the bride and bridegroom would take a dim view of it.
—Rev. Charles Manchester of Haworth, England.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

I was just asked by a member of one of the city departments when the first bus ran in Kingston or when the trolley cars stopped running. The first bus service in Kingston started on Sunday, January 17, 1926, when the local trolley road placed three buses on their routes. Two went on the through route and the other one on the loop through the uptown section.

Perhaps some of the old timers will recall that famous year of 1926 during the coal shortage. Going back to the buses it seems they promised a 15-minute schedule, but could not keep to it and it took them a half an hour to cover their route. The bus on the uptown loop broke down altogether in the late afternoon and so service to that section had to be discontinued temporarily. It seems that new buses were ordered by the trolley road and they expected that once they got on the route in some three weeks from then they could stick to their schedule. There is also an item that I found saying that the Common Council granted a petition of the local trolley road to substitute buses for trolley cars, that is dated May, 1930. I do not know when the tracks were pulled up. Personally I think if we still had the tracks and in good condition and had summer trolley cars, and they were five cents a ride many people would go up and down town just for the ride and perhaps even stop to shop. In my humble estimation nothing could replace the nickle summer trolley cars. Remember when the Kingston city trolley cars in the summer, bound for Kingston Point carried a blue flag so that their many customers would know which trolley car to take.

Going back to July 8, 1919, when fare was six cents on the summer trolley cars, they were running four trolley cars for July 4th, two on each line, and even then they could not handle the passengers to Kingston Point Park. It was said, every car that left for home was also crowded. It is said the first trolley car to make a trip to Kingston Point Park was on July 11, 1896. In the real early days, the Colonial Line or (Hasbrouck Ave. line,) as we called it, had lines running through Delaware avenue to the gates of the park at Kingston Point. The Broadway line did not go to the park and later made arrangements to run over the former Ulster and Delaware railroad tracks on the Strand and over the long trestle to the Hudson River Day Line pier.

The horse cars ran from 1866 from Rondout to Kingston with a toll gate midway. It is said the horse cars, of which the only pictures I ever saw were lithograph sketches in the Ulster County Atlas of 1875, although it is said they ran for some 27 years before they gave way to electric trolleys. It is said that Jimmy Norton worked both on the horse-cars and later on the electric trolley cars so perhaps his family has a picture of him on a horse car. Dave Brown who was a superintendent of the City Hall for many years was a very popular motorman on the trolley road. In January of 1902 the two Kingston City trolley and the Colonial lines consolidated. No doubt conductors and motormen remember many incidents of those days of Kingston city trolley cars, especially during summer months on rush weekends.

Rain Big Help InCheckingBrush Fires in Greene

Monday's rainstorm which brought relief to local residents also brought a welcome relief to some 100 weary firefighters in Greene County who had spent the weekend fighting brush fires in the towns of Cairo and Hunter.

Some three acres of heavy pine woodland was burned Sunday in the Austin Road area in Cairo when fire broke out during the afternoon.

Catskill and Kiskatom firemen fought the fire following a mutual aid call. More than 50 men were at the scene. The fire burned six to eight inches in the dry ground and about 9,000 gallons of water was poured on the fire by the Cairo pumper, assisted by Catskill and Kiskatom firemen.

A fire also broke out Sunday on Hunter mountain about 6 p. m. and over 30 men were organized by District Ranger Victor Scharader and Ranger Dan Showers. The fire apparently started under the chair lift and spread up the mountain burning under a pile of logs and into the ground.

Monday's rain aided the firemen in extinguishing the fires.

Bar Names Avis On Committee for Family Relations

Joseph Avis, Kingston attorney, has been appointed a member of the New York State Bar Association's Committee on Domestic Relations. The appointment was made this week by David W. Peck of New York City, president of the New York State Bar Association. Maurice Frey of Buffalo is chairman of the committee.

One of the matters which will come up for discussion before the State Bar Committee on Domestic Relations will be the new Family Court Act set-up, one of the most important items in the new state-wide Reorganization Court System. Attorney Avis is a past president of the Federation of Bar Associations of the State of New York and a member of the Committee on Family Law of the American Bar Association. A year ago he was named to the National Committee on Conflict of Law in Matrimonial Actions.

Avis whose offices are at 233 Wall Street, has been practicing law in the city of Kingston since 1932 and for 30 years has specialized in the field of Domestic Relations law.

Conference Held By Governors Costs $92,000

HARRISBURG (AP) — A state official estimates that the Governors' Conference last week at Hershey cost the Commonwealth approximately $92,000 — including a $7,500 fee to comedian Bob Hope.

The figure was set over the weekend by Deputy Commerce Secretary Harold A. Swenson, who directed arrangements for Secretary Harold A. Swenson, who directed arrangements for the four-day affair. The state legislature allocated $100,000 to cover expenses.

Swenson said the highest single item of expense would be hotel bills totaling approximately $25,000.

Not included in the $100,000 appropriation was the expenses of some 300 state troopers who chauffered the governors and dignitaries.

The troopers, who worked long hours during the conference, are to receive four days of compensatory time off.

Restaurant Destroyed

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—A restaurant and the interior of a vacant four-story apartment house were destroyed by fire Monday.

The cause was not determined. Firemen said the fire was discovered in the Brooklyn Seafood Restaurant on N. Salina St.

THE NEWLY FORMED CONSERVATIVE PARTY IN NEW YORK STATE

(Sponsored by The Conservative Party Club of Woodstock, P. O. Box 266, Woodstock, N. Y. (Anyone desiring to help defray the cost of this ad, send donations to the above address.)

Our country is strong, and everywhere it is in retreat before Soviet Communism. It was founded and grew great on the free energy of free men, and everywhere encroaching bureaucracy overpowers and strangles the free energy of free men.

The armed might and conspiratorial techniques of Soviet Communism, advancing the world over, are step by step enveloping us, preparatory to a final assault or—what the Communists would prefer and hopefully expect—a dictated surrender.

At home, a crushing burden of taxation for purposes unconnected with defense, never-ceasing inflation, the untrammeled growth of the power of government bureaucrats and union bosses, and a constantly decaying educational practice, combine to transform America gradually but unmistakably into a socialist society, in which the individual person will count for nothing.

Under the prevailing influence of so-called Liberalism, the nation's leaders have failed to gather the will of America to resist the onrush of Communist conquest or to stem the subtle tide of bureaucratic socialism. Only the re-establishment of conservative principles can restore America as a nation firmly founded upon liberty and justice and strong in their defense against the Communist enemy of all mankind.

Therefore, we the members of The Conservative Party, Incorporated, calling for the support of all who wish to reassert the deep beliefs and instincts of the American people in stalwart resistance to the foreign enemy and in determined struggle against domestic evils, pledge ourselves to the following program:

I. UNCOMPROMISING STRUGGLE FOR THE ELIMINATION OF ARMED COMMUNISM

Realizing that international Communism is intrinsically and unalterably determined upon world conquest, that accommodation or compromise with it is by its very nature impossible, we demand a total reassessment of American foreign policy so that, recognizing the stark alternative of victory or defeat which Communism poses for us, we place the achievement of victory over this menace as the lodestar of all our international action.

In furtherance of this end, the control of American foreign policy must be restored to the United States itself, so that our actions are determined by our just national interests, which are the interests of the free world, not by the shifting coalitions of the United Nations.

And, in order that our nation may be free to develop a firm foreign policy, unhampered by internal sabotage and subversion, the Communist drive to infiltrate and undermine our institutions must be prosecuted with every resource of our laws.

II. RETURN TO THE PRINCIPLES OF THE CONSTITUTION

In the spirit of the Constitution, we stand for the limitation of government to its essential and necessary activities; for a return of all possible Federal activities to the several States; of all possible activities of the States to the local communities; and of all possible governmental activities at every level to the private energies of individuals and non-governmental associations.

To this end we propose:

(1) Easing the burden of taxation through the sharpest possible reduction of unnecessary governmental activities; through a radical cut in the powers and numbers of a parasitic bureaucracy; and through the rationalization of the tax structure to encourage thrift and enterprise;

(2) Ending government support of special privileges to special groups through:

freeing the working man, industry and the community at large from the imperial domination of trade-union bosses, by reducing their monopoly power to a level compatible with the rule of law;

freeing the farmers from bureaucratic regulation as dependent wards of the government, by eliminating in gradual stages the entire crop control, price control, and subsidy program;

freeing the energy of American industry, by eliminating specialized subsidies and governmental favors;

freeing the consumer (who is all of us) from the pressure of constant inflation, which is largely brought about by the curbs of special privileges on American productivity and by the cost of the nonproductive bureaucracy which enforces these curbs; and

(3) Returning the control of education to the parent and the local communities; and returning the content of education to the fundamental principles of our civilization and the fundamental skills of an educated man.

To the realization of this program and to the continuing struggle to translate conservative principles into reality at every level of our state and national life, we pledge our unswerving loyalty and determination.

Rain Big Help InCheckingBrush Fires in Greene

Monday's rainstorm which brought relief to local residents also brought a welcome relief to some 100 weary firefighters in Greene County who had spent the weekend fighting brush fires in the towns of Cairo and Hunter.

Some three acres of heavy pine woodland was burned Sunday in the Austin Road area in Cairo when fire broke out during the afternoon.

Catskill and Kiskatom firemen fought the fire following a mutual aid call. More than 50 men were at the scene. The fire burned six to eight inches in the dry ground and about 9,000 gallons of water was poured on the fire by the Cairo pumper, assisted by Catskill and Kiskatom firemen.

A fire also broke out Sunday on Hunter mountain about 6 p. m. and over 30 men were organized by District Ranger Victor Scharader and Ranger Dan Showers. The fire apparently started under the chair lift and spread up the mountain burning under a pile of logs and into the ground.

Monday's rain aided the firemen in extinguishing the fires.

Attorney Avis is a past president of the Federation of Bar Associations of the State of New York and a member of the Committee on Family Law of the American Bar Association. A year ago he was named to the National Committee on Conflict of Law in Matrimonial Actions.

Swenson said the highest single item of expense would be hotel bills totaling approximately $25,000.

Not included in the $100,000 appropriation was the expenses of some 300 state troopers who chauffered the governors and dignitaries.

The troopers, who worked long hours during the conference, are to receive four days of compensatory time off.

Pleasant Over Most of Nation, Laredo Has 103

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The spell of warm and humid weather clung to most of the South today but it was pleasant in most other sections of the nation.

Heavy rain and strong winds hit areas in Minnesota during the night. Winds were clocked at 70 m.p.h. in Thief River Falls, in northwestern Minnesota. A slow moving cold front almost encircling the eastern half of the country resulted in light rain in parts of New England, Florida, Louisiana and northwestward through Oklahoma.

Temperatures were around seasonal levels in most of the northern half of the country, with early morning readings in the 60s and 70s. They were in the 50s in sections of the Great Lakes and northern Ohio Valley and in the 80s and 90s in the Southwest desert region.

The tropical air mass over the Deep South sent temperatures into the high 90s again Monday, with higher marks in some areas. The 100 in Meridian, Miss., was a record high for July 9. It also was 100 in Fort Smith, Ark., and 103 in Laredo, Tex.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 100 in Needles, Calif., to 50 in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

Ban Put on Use Of Glasco Water

A ruling that there is to be no more sprinkling of lawns or other unnecessary use of water until further notice was approved Monday night by the Glasco Board of Water Commissioners.

A spokesman for the water board said that the Glasco Town Board will revise regulations and ordinances related to the use of water in the water district. The revision will impose a fine of $10 on anyone sprinkling a lawn or using water unnecessarily during the ban. A second offense would impose a fine of $25 and a third offense would impose a fine of $100 or 10 days in the Ulster County jail or both.

Fred Francello, superintendent of the Glasco Water District, explained that the ban is necessary so that the standpipe will have adequate water for fire protection.

Man Questioned Is Not Escapee From Wallkill

Kingston police today questioned a man who was described as resembling Donald Sims who escaped from Wallkill Prison Saturday, but released him after obtaining proof that he was a resident of Poughkeepsie.

A report at 5 a. m. said a man attempting to hitch-hike south on Route 9W appeared to fit the description of the escapee. Detective Charles McCullough, Acting Detective Floyd Krom, Sgt. Bernard Fowler, Officers Ira Hadsel and James Scott were assigned to investigate and the man was brought to headquarters for questioning. Poughkeepsie police verified his identity.

Pharmacy Thefts Are Being Probed

Local police today began investigation of the theft of an unknown amount of cash from four cash registers in the United Cut Rate Pharmacy, 329 Wall Street.

Entrance was gained to an upper floor of the building from an adjacent roof. A check was under way to determine the extent of merchandise missing.

Police Chief Robert F. Murphy with Lt. Lemuel Howard, detectives Harold DeGraff and Gurnsey Burger and Officer William Whalen are investigating.

U.S. Drops Hoffa Assault Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has dropped an assault charge against Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa because of conflicting accounts of the incident at union headquarters.

The misdemeanor charge was lodged May 17 after Samuel Baron, field director of the union's national warehouse division, claimed Hoffa shoved him over a chair and knocked him down twice.

The U.S. attorney's office said Monday it will not be able to prosecute Hoffa because there are serious conflicts between accounts given by Baron and those of six Teamsters employes who witnessed the incident.

After the charge was brought against Hoffa, Baron said he was threatened and pressured to drop it.

Baron said a difference between Hoffa's "conception of the labor movement and mine" was behind the incident.

Winnie Has Blood Clot in Thigh

A medical buletin issued from the hospital where he is under treatment said:

"There has been no extension of the thrombosis and the left leg is less swollen."

Until now, the circulatory condition in the 87-year-old former prime minister's leg had been described as phlebitis—inflation of a vein. This was said to have developed last Saturday.

A thrombosis, however, is a blood clot in a vein or artery.

Earlier, the attending doctors were said by a hospital spokesman to be giving Sir Winson injections to relieve the vein inflammation. Presumably the injections were anticoagulants aimed at preventing the formation of blood clots.

Despite the complications, he was able to sit up and read his morning newspapers today.

He broke his thigh in a fall in a Monte Carlo hotel June 29.

5 Desegregate Classes

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Southern School News reported today that five Southern colleges and universities desegregated their classrooms this summer for the first time.

Negroes were enrolled for classes with white students in June at Florida State University, Georgia State College, the University of Houston, East Carolina College and Mary Washington College, which is the women's division of the University of Virginia.

The publication said these new admissions give the Southern and border states 157 desegregated, tax-supported colleges and universities in a total of 285.

Wallkill Inmate Still at Large

Donald Sims, who escaped from a work detail at Wallkill State Prison last Saturday, was still at large today. Local State Police, sheriff's deputies and other law enforcement officials were still on the alert.

A $50 reward has been offered for information leading to the apprehension of Sims, who was serving a 7 to 15 year sentence for second degree robbery. He is 30 years old, white, five feet nine inches tall, weighs about 180 pounds and has brown hair and blue eyes. He is a native of Goodman, Mo., and has a scar at the base of his chin.

His last place of residence was 519 East 75th Street, New York City.

Bottum Choice For Case's Seat

PIERRE, S. D. (AP)—South Dakota Republican committeemen struggled through 20 ballots Monday night before settling on Lt. Gov. Joe Bottum as the party's replacement nominee for the U. S. Senate.

Bottum, 59, will succeed the late Sen. Francis Case on the November ballot.

Gov. Archie Gubbrud immediately appointed Bottum to fill out the remaining six months of Case's term. Case died in Washington several weeks ago after an easy victory in the Republican primary.

Metalworkers End Strike in Italy

TURIN, Italy (AP) — A nationwide strike of metalworkers, marked by three days of riots and turmoil here, ended today.

The strikers claim to represent more than a million workers in such heavy industries as steel, automobiles and shipbuilding. Nearly a fourth of the nation's unionized metalworkers live in this prosperous industrial city.

The workers demanded a new contract with improved wage scales and a 40-hour week in place of the current 46-hour week.

Ask Disaster Aid

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — Drought-plagued dairy farmers in St. Lawrence and Tompkins counties have appealed for disaster aid and other farmers in many sections of parched Upstate New York were preparing similar appeals today.

"There will undoubtedly be more requests," Albert Loucks, program specialist for the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee said.

State Conservation Department officials in Albany reported the forest-fire threat in Eastern New York was the worst in 18 years. There have been no major fires so far, but fires are expected to break out in remote areas within the next few days, a department spokesman said, because lightning over the weekend probably started underground smouldering.

Man Swept Over Falls

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (AP) — Police today searched for the body of a man swept over Niagara Falls Monday in a grim sequel to a similar accident two years ago.

The man, not yet identified, fell from Table Rock House into the swirling waters only a few feet from the brink of Horseshoe Falls. He was swept over the 162-foot drop almost immediately.

Two years ago 7-year-old Roger Woodward suffered the same experience but survived.

Today Ben Khedda waited for a report from Rabat, Morocco, where Information Minister Mohammed Yazid and Minister of State Rabah Bitat were conferring with dissident Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella.

AEC Warns Shot Will Sear Eyes Of Anyone Spying

Both devices were described as low yield, indicating a destructive power of 20 kilotons or less. A kiloton is equal to 1,000 tons of TNT.

The rescheduled blast, postponed from Saturday, will be set off a few feet above ground. The AEC refused to give details.

Pleasant Over Most of Nation, Laredo Has 103

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The spell of warm and humid weather clung to most of the South today but it was pleasant in most other sections of the nation.

Heavy rain and strong winds hit areas in Minnesota during the night. Winds were clocked at 70 m.p.h. in Thief River Falls, in northwestern Minnesota. A slow moving cold front almost encircling the eastern half of the country resulted in light rain in parts of New England, Florida, Louisiana and northwestward through Oklahoma.

Temperatures were around seasonal levels in most of the northern half of the country, with early morning readings in the 60s and 70s. They were in the 50s in sections of the Great Lakes and northern Ohio Valley and in the 80s and 90s in the Southwest desert region.

The tropical air mass over the Deep South sent temperatures into the high 90s again Monday, with higher marks in some areas. The 100 in Meridian, Miss., was a record high for July 9. It also was 100 in Fort Smith, Ark., and 103 in Laredo, Tex.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 100 in Needles, Calif., to 50 in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

Ban Put on Use Of Glasco Water

A ruling that there is to be no more sprinkling of lawns or other unnecessary use of water until further notice was approved Monday night by the Glasco Board of Water Commissioners.

A spokesman for the water board said that the Glasco Town Board will revise regulations and ordinances related to the use of water in the water district. The revision will impose a fine of $10 on anyone sprinkling a lawn or using water unnecessarily during the ban. A second offense would impose a fine of $25 and a third offense would impose a fine of $100 or 10 days in the Ulster County jail or both.

Fred Francello, superintendent of the Glasco Water District, explained that the ban is necessary so that the standpipe will have adequate water for fire protection.

U.S. Drops Hoffa Assault Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has dropped an assault charge against Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa because of conflicting accounts of the incident at union headquarters.

The misdemeanor charge was lodged May 17 after Samuel Baron, field director of the union's national warehouse division, claimed Hoffa shoved him over a chair and knocked him down twice.

The U.S. attornye's office said Monday it will not be able to prosecute Hoffa because there are serious conflicts between accounts given by Baron and those of six Teamsters employes who witnessed the incident.

After the charge was brought against Hoffa, Baron said he was threatened and pressured to drop it.

Baron said a difference between Hoffa's "conception of the labor movement and mine" was behind the incident.

Winnie Has Blood Clot in Thigh

A medical buletin issued from the hospital where he is under treatment said:

"There has been no extension of the thrombosis and the left leg is less swollen."

Until now, the circulatory condition in the 87-year-old former prime minister's leg had been described as phlebitis—inflation of a vein. This was said to have developed last Saturday.

A thrombosis, however, is a blood clot in a vein or artery.

Earlier, the attending doctors were said by a hospital spokesman to be giving Sir Winson injections to relieve the vein inflammation. Presumably the injections were anticoagulants aimed at preventing the formation of blood clots.

Despite the complications, he was able to sit up and read his morning newspapers today.

He broke his thigh in a fall in a Monte Carlo hotel June 29.

5 Desegregate Classes

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Southern School News reported today that five Southern colleges and universities desegregated their classrooms this summer for the first time.

Negroes were enrolled for classes with white students in June at Florida State University, Georgia State College, the University of Houston, East Carolina College and Mary Washington College, which is the women's division of the University of Virginia.

The publication said these new admissions give the Southern and border states 157 desegregated, tax-supported colleges and universities in a total of 285.

He is 30 years old, white, five feet nine inches tall, weighs about 180 pounds and has brown hair and blue eyes. He is a native of Goodman, Mo., and has a scar at the base of his chin.

His last place of residence was 519 East 75th Street, New York City.

TURIN, Italy (AP) — A nationwide strike of metalworkers, marked by three days of riots and turmoil here, ended today.

The strikers claim to represent more than a million workers in such heavy industries as steel, automobiles and shipbuilding. Nearly a fourth of the nation's unionized metalworkers live in this prosperous industrial city.

Ask Disaster Aid

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — Drought-plagued dairy farmers in St. Lawrence and Tompkins counties have appealed for disaster aid and other farmers in many sections of parched Upstate New York were preparing similar appeals today.

"There will undoubtedly be more requests," Albert Loucks, program specialist for the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee said.

State Conservation Department officials in Albany reported the forest-fire threat in Eastern New York was the worst in 18 years. There have been no major fires so far, but fires are expected to break out in remote areas within the next few days, a department spokesman said, because lightning over the weekend probably started underground smouldering.

AEC Warns Shot Will Sear Eyes Of Anyone Spying

CAMP MERCURY, Nev. (AP) —The Atomic Energy Commission scheduled a secret underground nuclear blast today and warned it would be strong enough to sear the eyes of anyone spying with binoculars.

Another detonation, set for above ground today, was postponed for the third time, this time for 24 hours. Winds were gusting up to 25 miles per hour on the southern Nevada desert.

Both devices were described as low yield, indicating a destructive power of 20 kilotons or less. A kiloton is equal to 1,000 tons of TNT.

The rescheduled blast, postponed from Saturday, will be set off a few feet above ground. The AEC refused to give details.

But World Situation Better

Present Quietude May Not Last Much Longer

BY JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—One difference between now and this time last year is that Premier Khrushchev is letting President Kennedy alone long enough to get some of his housekeeping done.

Nothing Much Solved

Nothing much has been solved, settled or agreed on: neither Berlin nor disarmament nor a ban on nuclear tests. But there hasn't been a big crisis in months. And Kennedy unlike the harried Kennedy of 1961, can devote more time to trying to get his banged-up program through Congress and spur the economy.

This kind of more-or-less international quietude probably won't last long since the bouncy Russian, who despises American jazz, gets his kicks throwing another log on the fire.

Yet for everyone's peace of mind—outside of explosive Algeria, war-wrecked Viet Nam, and the edgy world of the Red and Formosan Chinese — things look at least a little better than in July a year ago.

By then, although Kennedy was less than a year in office and wrestling with Congress, Khrushchev had mussed his hair with new threats on Berlin.

Khrushchev may have figured his timing was excellent. Kennedy by then could hardly have recovered from the shock and embarrassment of the badly thought-through and disastrous Cuban invasion.

Kennedy journeyed to Vienna to see him and came back so disturbed he called for a fresh military build-up. Even more disturbing things were to follow.

In August the Communists threw up their wall in Berlin and within another few weeks ended the voluntary armistice on nuclear testing and began testing again.

Days Not Too Dull

But Kennedy, with the other Western partners, stood firm. And Khrushchev, who hadn't gained anything but hadn't lost anything, cooled off as he had before while agreeing to nothing then or since.

The days, however, have not been dull for Khrushchev or Kennedy or, for that matter, for the Red Chinese. In fact, all of them had enough housekeeping problems to keep them busy at home.

The American economy took some dizzy turns, the Russian economy wasn't as good as Khrushchev thought it was going to be, and the Red Chinese suffered an economic calamity which may profoundly affect their whole career.

No one with any memory of the past, except a couch case, can take this new quietude as indicative of a new and peaceful era or as indicative of anything other than an interval between rounds when fighters get sponged and refreshed.

Cutting Margin For Buyers on Credit May Help

BY DARDEN CHAMBLISS
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK, (AP)—Changing the minimum down payment on stocks may not in itself have much permanent effect on the stock market, but it could effect attitudes in a very beneficial way.

That was the reaction of many people on Wall Street to the announcement Monday by the Federal Reserve Board that effective today, margin requirements are reduced from 70 to 50 per cent.

That means that those who want to buy on credit now need put down only one half of the full purchase price on initial purchases of listed stocks, with their brokers carrying the rest.

The reduction is the first since margins were cut from 90 per cent in July 1960.

Two Differ on Effect

Many analysts commented that historically, changes in margin requirements have had little long-term effect on market direction.

But Gerald M. Loeb, partner in E. F. Hutton and Co., said this reduction could be different.

"Its beneficial effect on stock prices should be greater and quicker than past experience suggests," he said.

The action, he said, may mean the board felt "that optimism has moved below normal into the realm of over-pessimism."

A contrary opinion was expressed by Sidney B. Lurie of Josephthal and Co., who said, "It doesn't mean a thing."

Lester Wyetzner of Bache and Co. said, "Business is absolutely in a downtrend and that is not going to be changed by a margin reduction."

With margin requirements at the high levels of recent years, relatively few buyers have availed themselves of these credit provisions through brokers. The vast majority have bought their stocks outright.

Exchange Reports

The New York Stock Exchange said that at the end of May, margin credit outstanding was about $5.4 billion, compared with the total value of listed stocks of $326.7 billion. In 1929 such credit was about $13.5 billion when the over-all stock list totaled about $78 billion.

Psychological effects of the margin change were cited by many analysts as more important than its specific influence on credit purchases.

"If it's the first of a series of efforts by the government to bolster confidence," said William Kurtz of Paine, Webber, Jackson and Curtis, "it could mean a lot."

He said other steps, like a cut in corporate income taxes, could "replace a possible recession with a real resurgence."

NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street celebrated easier stock market credit today with one of the biggest rallies since the stock plunge this year. Trading was heavy early this afternoon.

Reflecting a strong upsurge in blue chips, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 4.40 at 220.70 with industrials up 6.60, rails up 2.10, and utilities up 2.20.

This came fairly close to the scope of the big rebound of Friday, June 15, but was not in the same league with the tremendous recovery of May 29 which followed "Black Monday"

Exuberant buying followed overnight news that the Federal Reserve Board had cut stock margin requirements to 50 per cent from 70 per cent, making it possible to buy $100 worth of stock for a $50 down payment.

Key stocks rose 2 or more points along a broad front and some "growth" issues ran up several points.

SHOWING ITS AGE—The nearly half-century old Washington Avenue viaduct is due to be razed as a state project soon after final approval is given the plans. It has been disintegrating badly in sections for the past decade or more. These views are of erosion, one on a high section above and one along the grade entering the city. A section fell away Sunday near the Murphy Street ramp. (Freeman photo)

Wilson Will . . .

structure's safe use and decisions as to its future use, pending start of the project, would be based on his inspection.

Wilson said that while the viaduct problem was basically a city matter, his office would do all it could to assist in gaining an early start of the project.

Mayor Schwenk reported receiving copies of the project plans on June 22. With them were copies of three resolutions which must be adopted locally. One calls for approval of plans, another asks for a guarantee against encroachment in the project area, and the third asks for maintenance by the city of sidewalks, sewers and appurtenances.

No action was taken on the resolutions at the July 3 Common Council meeting, because city officials require time for study of certain legal aspects and details of the plans.

Pushing Appraisals

Appraisal of properties in the project area, Sinacori said, has been started and is "being pushed". His office would do all within its power to expedite start of the project, he indicated. The city, he said, must maintain the structure for traffic until the project is under contract.

The viaduct was opened to traffic in 1914. It was built to overpass the former O&W and U&D railroads. The latter still operates a few trains as the Catskill Mountain branch of the New York Central.

Several mayors have petitioned for removal of the traffic bottleneck within the past two decades. Public hearing prior to a Public Service Commission order for its removal opened and closed in 1957, was resumed in 1959 and was followed by the PSC order in early 1960.

Sections of the structure have eroded and crumbled badly within the past decade.

Hope that emergency repairs will soon be completed on the Washington Avenue viaduct so that vehicular traffic may be resumed, was expressed today by Deputy Civil Director Charles Arnold.

Pointing out that the viaduct provides a key exit from the City, Arnold said it is of the utmost importance the viaduct be maintained for Civil Defense purposes.

The deputy Civil Defense director said he was confident the State Department of Public Works will move ahead with all possible speed in eliminating the hazardous structure and replacing it as the westerly entranceway to the city with the proposed Esopus Creek bridge.

Buzzanco's Junk

and ceasing the operation of his junk yard within 60 days from the date of service of the order upon him.

Ordered Jailed by Bruhn

Upon Buzzanco's failure to obey the provisions of these orders, an application was made to Justice Louis G. Bruhn on July 6, last, to punish Buzzanco for his contempt, and an order was entered by Justice Bruhn on that date which stated, among other things • • •" the defendant has wholly failed and neglected to perform the acts required of him by the orders of this court • • • and has failed and neglected to purge himself of the contempt of this court • • •"; and ordered that • • • "said Andy Buzzanco, the defendant named, be and he hereby is directed to stand committed to the common jail of the County of Ulster, there to remain charged with such contempt, until the acts required to be performed by the orders of this court • • • have in fact been performed • • •".

Simultaneously a warrant of commitment was signed by Justice Bruhn directing the sheriff of the county to take Buzzanco into custody and commit him to jail unless or until he performs those acts required by the Zoning Board and by the court orders referred to.

In announcing the decision, Attorney Beck stated that the Zoning Board was hesitant to ask such drastic rules as imprisonment in the violation of the Zoning Law which Buzzanco has committed, and he further pointed out, however, that the condition created by Buzzanco's contemptuous conduct was so dangerous to the health and welfare of his neighbors and so unsightly, and further created such an extreme fire hazard as to make this application a necessity. He stated that upon compliance with the Court and the Zoning Board orders, application would be made to discharge the defendant from custody.

Attorney Harry Gold, corporation counsel of the City of Kingston, was attorney of record for Beck and the Zoning Board.

Berlin War Threat

clear war," he went on, "they will inevitably perish themselves in its flames."

His claim that the Soviet Union had developed an antimissile missile were in these words:

"With due account of the fact that the Soviet Union was forced to develop in the last few years nuclear weapons of 50, 100 and more megatons, intercontinental rockets, the global rocket which is practically impervious to defense and an antimissile rocket," he said, "it will be seen that the ruling groups of the United States have no reason at all to say that the balance of strength has changed in their favor."

Defense Minister Marshal Rodion Malinovsky asserted last November that the Soviet Union had the means of intercepting enemy rockets. But he did not say whether this meant an antimissile missile had been developed.

Nevertheless, he said, the United States was leading the world in the scale of its war preparations, and that the threat that militarism would engulf civilian society in Western nations was a reality.

Khrushchev called "monstrous" the idea advanced by U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara on June 16 that an understanding might be reached to limit nuclear weapons to use against troops and thus spare cities.

"We believe that what we must agree on is not the rules of nuclear war, but how to eliminate the very possibility of its breaking out, so that towns, big and small, remain intact, and that all townships, villages and farming communities remain intact as well," said Khrushchev.

The world situation, he went on, requires "immediate action by all the peoples, otherwise there will be a catastrophe."

In the present balance of forces and new weapons, he declared, "the nuclear war contemplated by the American militarists would not confine itself to the territories of just two countries. It would be universal, and would bring destruction and death to millions of people all over the world."

Citing dangers of a mistake leading to a chain-like reaction and world war, he said: that "for all of 12½ minutes the American Strategic Air Command was virtually in a state of war with the Soviet Union," last November.

He referred to an error in communications which led to an alert of the Strategic Air Command. The error was quickly checked and corrected.

guilty to disorderly conduct, arising out of a tavern affray in February 1962, when it was alleged he had committed a third degree assault on Raymond Markle, was given a 30-day suspended jail sentence.

Charles Saccoman appeared for Quick and stated that Quick had attempted to break up an argument between a man and his wife when the husband pursued his wife to the ladies room. He had been forced to protect himself. Next day Quick was charged with second degree assault but the grand jury was handed up a third degree assault indictment. Quick later pleaded to disorderly conduct. Married with a family, Judge Mino took into consideration the circumstances, which District Attorney David W. Corwin verified, and suspended the jail sentence, warning defendant that any further incident might cause the jail sentence to be carried out.

Several other cases adjourned to July 16 at 10 a. m. when court will be resumed.

He also arraigned Red China, accusing it of creating border incidents with India.

Tass, Soviet news agency, broadcast abroad a lengthy text of the Pontius speech. Soviet reporting of material unfavorable to the Soviet Union has been unusual.

Pontius did not spare the United States in his criticism.

He said a majority of the 150-member U.S. delegation agreed that the United States was "mistaken in perpetrating the U2 flights" over Soviet territory and "violated the peace of the world by sponsoring the invasion of Cuba."

He said the United States failed to advance a program to negotiate peace over Berlin, that it helped promote an arms race by stepping up conventional armaments, that it was aiding a Fascist-type regime in Viet Nam.

Wilson Is Asking

Wilson sent to the supervisors reads:

"I am most pleased that Speaker Carlino named me to serve on the Joint Legislative Committee on Appraisals and Assessments of State-Owned Lands.

"Because of certain rulings of the Board of Equalization and Assessments and others in regard to the appraisal of lands, this subject is of paramount interest to us in Ulster County.

"It is my intention to attend every meeting of this committee regardless of what part of the state such meeting may be called.

"I would like to have the benefit of your thoughts as to how state assessment policies may affect your town.

"If I am to effectively represent our point of view, it is most important that I be fortified with my own supervisors' thoughts in regard to their problems. This will help me immeasurably to forcefully represent our people before this committee."

Don't Sell Good Stocks To Pay Off Mortgage

Q) "We own a house with a mortgage of $15,000. Our blue-chip stocks pay us $1,300, my salary is $11,000 and we have 4 children. Currently our mortgage interest is at a higher rate than the return on our stocks. Should we sell the latter to reduce the former?" G. T.

A) You are a very fortunate man in your family and in your finances, and I congratulate you. Since you seem relatively young and have taken good care of your money, I see no reason to sell sound stocks at present depressed levels in order to decrease your mortgage.

I happen to believe that—in spite of the best efforts of our Government—inflation may be checked, but will never be halted.

If I am correct, it is good policy to maintain a debt that you can carry comfortably and pay off some day—maybe years hence—with cheaper dollars. And, conversely, your shares over the same period should increase in value.

Q) "I inherited a sum of money and am thinking of buying a substantial amount of Giant Yellowknife Mines. What is your opinion of the stock?" O. M.

A) Giant Yellowknife is a rather speculative, relatively small gold mining situation operating in the Northwest Territories of Canada. In my mind, there are only two reasons for buying this stock at current levels.

The main purpose might be that you believe the price of gold is going to be raised by our Government—which would bring very much higher earnings to Yellowknife.

The other is the conviction that we are going into a serious depression within the next 12 months. Historically, gold stocks have a tendency to act well in depressions, while other stocks are falling.

I happen to believe that neither of the foregoing events is in the cards—and I am convinced that this country is in a far stronger position than many critics contend. Accordingly, I am not attracted to the golds at present high levels.

Postal Force . . .

ferent unions or no union.

No union may have exclusive and formal recognition in the same post office but any union may have formal and informal status according to Schupp.

He said this morning that from tallies of the local vote, it is felt that the United Federation of Post Office Clerks will be the union named as the exclusive bargaining agent between the post office and the employes here.

Ballot counting begins today throughout the nation, according to an Associated Press story from Washington, D. C., which said the voting is the largest collective bargaining election ever held in the United States. It includes more than 400,000 postal employes.

No Right to Strike

The Washington dispatch further stated:

In about 10 days, when the results are released, Post Office Department workers will know which unions will represent them on policy matters and working conditions.

A department spokesman estimated Sunday that about 80 per cent of the approximately 520,000 postal employes voted by mail last month. The tallying will be done at 15 regional offices.

As federal workers postal employes cannot be represented by unions so far as wages and hours are concerned, nor have they the right to strike.

The Post Office long has been a maze of unions. The National Association of Letter Carriers, AFL-CIO, which claims a membership of 150,000, seeks to become the bargaining agent for all workers in seven classifications.

ty officials to enter the property of the two defendants under a search and seizure warrant issued by a Dutchess County justice of the peace.

It is alleged in the indictment that the acts were committed between January 1961 and June 1, 1962. Nardone said this covered a long period and he sought certain information in order to prepare for trial. District Attorney David W. Corwin said he would consent to supplying the dates and places but would deny the other information, it being a part of the prosecution's proof on trial.

Wants to See Minutes

The sufficiency of the information before the grand jury was attacked by Nardone and he sought to inspect the grand jury minutes.

Judge Mino reserved decision on the application and gave Nardone time to file memorandum and also allowed time for the district attorney to reply to such memorandum.

Senate Will Vote

Thursday of next week.

However, the Senate fate of President Kennedy's Social Security health plan probably will be decided next Tuesday.

The agreeemnt provides for a roll-call vote then on the question of tabling and thus killing the proposal of Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., which embodies the President's plan.

Anderson and his supporters were optimistic but said they would like to recruit some additional votes so they would have a comfortable margin.

But World Situation Better

Present Quietude May Not Last Much Longer

BY JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—One difference between now and this time last year is that Premier Khrushchev is letting President Kennedy alone long enough to get some of his housekeeping done.

Nothing Much Solved

Nothing much has been solved, settled or agreed on: neither Berlin nor disarmament nor a ban on nuclear tests. But there hasn't been a big crisis in months. And Kennedy unlike the harried Kennedy of 1961, can devote more time to trying to get his banged-up program through Congress and spur the economy.

This kind of more-or-less international quietude probably won't last long since the bouncy Russian, who despises American jazz, gets his kicks throwing another log on the fire.

Yet for everyone's peace of mind—outside of explosive Algeria, war-wrecked Viet Nam, and the edgy world of the Red and Formosan Chinese — things look at least a little better than in July a year ago.

By then, although Kennedy was less than a year in office and wrestling with Congress, Khrushchev had mussed his hair with new threats on Berlin.

Khrushchev may have figured his timing was excellent. Kennedy by then could hardly have recovered from the shock and embarrassment of the badly thought-through and disastrous Cuban invasion.

Kennedy journeyed to Vienna to see him and came back so disturbed he called for a fresh military build-up. Even more disturbing things were to follow.

In August the Communists threw up their wall in Berlin and within another few weeks ended the voluntary armistice on nuclear testing and began testing again.

Days Not Too Dull

But Kennedy, with the other Western partners, stood firm. And Khrushchev, who hadn't gained anything but hadn't lost anything, cooled off as he had before while agreeing to nothing then or since.

The days, however, have not been dull for Khrushchev or Kennedy or, for that matter, for the Red Chinese. In fact, all of them had enough housekeeping problems to keep them busy at home.

The American economy took some dizzy turns, the Russian economy wasn't as good as Khrushchev thought it was going to be, and the Red Chinese suffered an economic calamity which may profoundly affect their whole career.

No one with any memory of the past, except a couch case, can take this new quietude as indicative of a new and peaceful era or as indicative of anything other than an interval between rounds when fighters get sponged and refreshed.

Cutting Margin For Buyers on Credit May Help

BY DARDEN CHAMBLISS
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK, (AP)—Changing the minimum down payment on stocks may not in itself have much permanent effect on the stock market, but it could effect attitudes in a very beneficial way.

That was the reaction of many people on Wall Street to the announcement Monday by the Federal Reserve Board that effective today, margin requirements are reduced from 70 to 50 per cent.

That means that those who want to buy on credit now need put down only one half of the full purchase price on initial purchases of listed stocks, with their brokers carrying the rest.

The reduction is the first since margins were cut from 90 per cent in July 1960.

Two Differ on Effect

Many analysts commented that historically, changes in margin requirements have had little long-term effect on market direction.

But Gerald M. Loeb, partner in E. F. Hutton and Co., said this reduction could be different.

"Its beneficial effect on stock prices should be greater and quicker than past experience suggests," he said.

The action, he said, may mean the board felt "that optimism has moved below normal into the realm of over-pessimism."

A contrary opinion was expressed by Sidney B. Lurie of Josephthal and Co., who said, "It doesn't mean a thing."

Lester Wyetzner of Bache and Co. said, "Business is absolutely in a downtrend and that is not going to be changed by a margin reduction."

With margin requirements at the high levels of recent years, relatively few buyers have availed themselves of these credit provisions through brokers. The vast majority have bought their stocks outright.

Exchange Reports

The New York Stock Exchange said that at the end of May, margin credit outstanding was about $3.4 billion, compared with the total value of listed stocks of $326.7 billion. In 1929 such credit was about $13.5 billion when the over-all stock list totaled about $78 billion.

Psychological effects of the margin change were cited by many analysts as more important than its specific influence on credit purchases.

"If it's the first of a series of efforts by the government to bolster confidence," said William Kurtz of Paine, Webber, Jackson and Curtis, "it could mean a lot."

He said other steps, like a cut in corporate income taxes, could "replace a possible recession with a real resurgence."

NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street celebrated easier stock market credit today with one of the biggest rallies since the stock plunge this year. Trading was heavy early this afternoon.

Reflecting a strong upsurge in blue chips, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 4.40 at 220.70 with industrials up 6.60, rails up 2.10, and utilities up 2.20.

This came fairly close to the scope of the big rebound of Friday, June 15, but was not in the same league with the tremendous recovery of May 29 which followed "Black Monday"

Exuberant buying followed overnight news that the Federal Reserve Board had cut stock margin requirements to 50 per cent from 70 per cent, making it possible to buy $100 worth of stock for a $50 down payment.

Key stocks rose 2 or more points along a broad front and some "growth" issues ran up several points.

SHOWING ITS AGE—The nearly half-century old Washington Avenue viaduct is due to be razed as a state project soon after final approval is given the plans. It has been disintegrating badly in sections for the past decade or more. These views are of erosion, one on a high section above and one along the grade entering the city. A section fell away Sunday near the Murphy Street ramp. (Freeman photo)

Wilson Will . . .

structure's safe use and decisions as to its future use, pending start of the project, would be based on his inspection.

Wilson said that while the viaduct problem was basically a city matter, his office would do all it could to assist in gaining an early start of the project.

Mayor Schwenk reported receiving copies of the project plans on June 22. With them were copies of three resolutions which must be adopted locally. One calls for approval of plans, another asks for a guarantee against encroachment in the project area, and the third asks for maintenance by the city of sidewalks, sewers and appurtenances.

No action was taken on the resolutions at the July 3 Common Council meeting, because city officials require time for study of certain legal aspects and details of the plans.

Pushing Appraisals

Appraisal of properties in the project area, Sinacori said, has been started and is "being pushed". His office would do all within its power to expedite start of the project, he indicated. The city, he said, must maintain the structure for traffic until the project is under contract.

The viaduct was opened to traffic in 1914. It was built to overpass the former O&W and U&D railroads. The latter still operates a few trains as the Catskill Mountain branch of the New York Central.

Several mayors have petitioned for removal of the traffic bottleneck within the past two decades. Public hearing prior to a Public Service Commission order for its removal opened and closed in 1957, was resumed in 1959 and was followed by the PSC order in early 1960.

Sections of the structure have eroded and crumbled badly within the past decade.

Hope that emergency repairs will soon be completed on the Washington Avenue viaduct so that vehicular traffic may be resumed, was expressed today by Deputy Civil Director Charles Arnold.

Pointing out that the viaduct provides a key exit from the City, Arnold said it is of the utmost importance the viaduct be maintained for Civil Defense purposes.

The deputy Civil Defense director said he was confident the State Department of Public Works will move ahead with all possible speed in eliminating the hazardous structure and replacing it as the westerly entranceway to the city with the proposed Esopus Creek bridge.

Buzzanco's Junk

and ceasing the operation of his junk yard within 60 days from the date of service of the order upon him.

Ordered Jailed by Bruhn

Upon Buzzanco's failure to obey the provisions of these orders, an application was made to Justice Louis G. Bruhn on July 6, last, to punish Buzzanco for his contempt, and an order was entered by Justice Bruhn on that date which stated, among other things * * * the defendant has wholly failed and neglected to perform the acts required of him by the orders of this court * * * and has failed and neglected to purge himself of the contempt of this court * * *"; and ordered that * * * "said Andy Buzzanco, the defendant named, be and he hereby is directed to stand committed to the common jail of the County of Ulster, there to remain charged with such contempt, until the acts required to be performed by the orders of this court * * * have in fact been performed * * *".

Simultaneously a warrant of commitment was signed by Justice Bruhn directing the sheriff of the county to take Buzzanco into custody and commit him to jail unless or until he performs those acts required by the Zoning Board and by the court orders referred to.

In announcing the decision, Attorney Beck stated that the Zoning Board was hesitant to ask such drastic rules as imprisonment in the violation of the Zoning Law which Buzzanco has committed, and he further pointed out, however, that the condition created by Buzzanco's contemptuous conduct was so dangerous to the health and welfare of his neighbors and so unsightly, and further created such an extreme fire hazard as to make this application a necessity. He stated that upon compliance with the Court and the Zoning Board orders, application would be made to discharge the defendant from custody.

Attorney Harry Gold, corporation counsel of the City of Kingston, was attorney of record for Beck and the Zoning Board.

Wilson Is Asking

Wilson sent to the supervisors reads:

"I am most pleased that Speaker Carlino named me to serve on the Joint Legislative Committee on Appraisals and Assessments of State-Owned Lands.

"Because of certain rulings of the Board of Equalization and Assessments and others in regard to the appraisal of lands, this subject is of paramount interest to us in Ulster County.

"It is my intention to attend every meeting of this committee regardless of what part of the state such meeting may be called.

"I would like to have the benefit of your thoughts as to how state assessment policies may affect your town.

"If I am to effectively represent our point of view, it is most important that I be fortified with my own supervisors' thoughts in regard to their problems. This will help me immeasurably to forcefully represent our people before this committee."

Berlin War Threat

clear war," he went on, "they will inevitably perish themselves in its flames."

His claim that the Soviet Union had developed an antimissile missile were in these words:

"With due account of the fact that the Soviet Union was forced to develop in the last few years nuclear weapons of 50, 100 and more megatons, intercontinental rockets, the global rocket which is practically impervious to defense and an antimissile rocket," he said, "it will be seen that the ruling groups of the United States have no reason at all to say that the balance of strength has changed in their favor."

Defense Minister Marshal Rodion Malinovsky asserted last November that the Soviet Union had the means of intercepting enemy rockets. But he did not say whether this meant an antimissile missile had been developed.

Nevertheless, he said, the United States was leading the world in the scale of its war preparations, and that the threat that militarism would engulf civilian society in Western nations was a reality.

Khrushchev called "monstrous" the idea advanced by U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara on June 16 that an understanding might be reached to limit nuclear weapons to use against troops and thus spare cities.

"We believe that what we must agree on is not the rules of nuclear war, but how to eliminate the very possibility of its breaking out, so that towns, big and small, remain intact, and that all townships, villages and farming communities remain intact as well," said Khrushchev.

The world situation, he went on, requires "immediate action by all the peoples, otherwise there will be a catastrophe."

In the present balance of forces and new weapons, he declared, "the nuclear war contemplated by the American militarists would not confine itself to the territories of just two countries. It would be universal, and would bring destruction and death to millions of people all over the world."

Citing dangers of a mistake leading to a chain-like reaction and world war, he said: that "for all of 12½ minutes the American Strategic Air Command was virtually in a state of war with the Soviet Union," last November.

He referred to an error in communications which led to an alert of the Strategic Air Command. The error was quickly checked and corrected.

He had been forced to protect himself. Next day Quick was charged with second degree assault but the grand jury was handed up a third degree assault indictment. Quick later pleaded to disorderly conduct. Married with a family, Judge Mino took into consideration the circumstances, which District Attorney David W. Corwin verified, and suspended the jail sentence, warning defendant that any further incident might cause the jail sentence to be carried out.

Several other cases adjourned to July 16 at 10 a. m. when court will be resumed.

Four cases were moved over the September term.

He also arraigned Red China, accusing it of creating border incidents with India.

Tass, Soviet news agency, broadcast abroad a lengthy text of the Pontius speech. Soviet reporting of material unfavorable to the Soviet Union has been unusual.

Pontius did not spare the United States in his criticism.

He said a majority of the 150-member U.S. delegation agreed that the United States was "mistaken in perpetrating the U2 flights" over Soviet territory and "violated the peace of the world by sponsoring the invasion of Cuba."

He said the United States failed to advance a program to negotiate peace over Berlin, that it helped promote an arms race by stepping up conventional armaments, that it was aiding a Fascist-type regime in Viet Nam.

Don't Sell Good Stocks To Pay Off Mortgage

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "We own a house with a mortgage of $15,000. Our blue-chip stocks pay us $1,300, my salary is $11,000 and we have 4 children. Currently our mortgage interest is at a higher rate than the return on our stocks. Should we sell the latter to reduce the former?" G. T.

A) You are a very fortunate man in your family and in your finances, and I congratulate you. Since you seem relatively young and have taken good care of your money, I see no reason to sell sound stocks at present depressed levels in order to decrease your mortgage.

I happen to believe that—in spite of the best efforts of our Government—inflation may be checked, but will never be halted.

If I am correct, it is good policy to maintain a debt that you can carry comfortably and pay off some day—maybe years hence—with cheaper dollars. And, conversely, your shares over the same period should increase in value.

Q) "I inherited a sum of money and am thinking of buying a substantial amount of Giant Yellowknife Mines. What is your opinion of the stock?" O. M.

A) Giant Yellowknife is a rather speculative, relatively small gold mining situation operating in the Northwest Territories of Canada. In my mind, there are only two reasons for buying this stock at current levels.

The main purpose might be that you believe the price of gold is going to be raised by our Government—which would bring very much higher earnings to Yellowknife.

The other is the conviction that we are going into a serious depression within the next 12 months. Historically, gold stocks have a tendency to act well in depressions, while other stocks are falling.

I happen to believe that neither of the foregoing events is in the cards—and I am convinced that this country is in a far stronger position than many critics contend. Accordingly, I am not attracted to the golds at present high levels.

ferent unions or no union.

No union may have exclusive and formal recognition in the same post office but any union may have formal and informal status according to Schupp.

He said this morning that from tallies of the local vote, it is felt that the United Federation of Post Office Clerks will be the union named as the exclusive bargaining agent between the post office and the employes here.

Ballot counting begins today throughout the nation, according to an Associated Press story from Washington, D. C., which said the voting is the largest collective bargaining election ever held in the United States. It includes more than 400,000 postal employes.

No Right to Strike

The Washington dispatch further stated:

In about 10 days, when the results are released, Post Office Department workers will know which unions will represent them on policy matters and working conditions.

A department spokesman estimated Sunday that about 80 per cent of the approximately 520,000 postal employes voted by mail last month. The tallying will be done at 15 regional offices.

As federal workers postal employes cannot be represented by unions so far as wages and hours are concerned, nor have they the right to strike.

The Post Office long has been a maze of unions. The National Association of Letter Carriers, AFL-CIO, which claims a membership of 150,000, seeks to become the bargaining agent for all workers in seven classifications.

ty officials to enter the property of the two defendants under a search and seizure warrant issued by a Dutchess County justice of the peace.

It is alleged in the indictment that the acts were committed between January 1961 and June 1, 1962. Nardone said this covered a long period and he sought certain information in order to prepare for trial. District Attorney David W. Corwin said he would consent to supplying the dates and places but would deny the other information, it being a part of the prosecution's proof on trial.

Wants to See Minutes

The sufficiency of the information before the grand jury was attacked by Nardone and he sought to inspect the grand jury minutes.

Judge Mino reserved decision on the application and gave Nardone time to file memorandum and also allowed time for the district attorney to reply to such memorandum.

Senate Will Vote

Thursday of next week.

However, the Senate fate of President Kennedy's Social Security health plan probably will be decided next Tuesday.

The agreeemnt provides for a roll-call vote then on the question of tabling and thus killing the proposal of Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., which embodies the President's plan.

Anderson and his supporters were optimistic but said they would like to recruit some additional votes so they would have a comfortable margin.

May Make Areas Hit by Drought Disaster Sections

HARRISBURG (AP)—The U.S. Agriculture Department was reported ready today to declare a number of Pennsylvania's drought stricken farm counties disaster areas, making them eligible for special federal aid.

State administration sources said the region which would figure most strongly in any such move by U.S. Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman would be northern tier counties.

Pennsylvania's northern counties' agriculture centers on the dairy industry, which has been particularly hard-hit by the drought. Without rain, pastures have shrivelled resulting in an increase in hay prices.

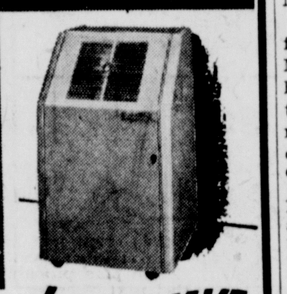

The report of the action by the Agriculture Department came as the state Disaster Committee converged on Harrisburg to decide what should be done about the drought.

Committee Chairman Howard Porter, East Millsboro, R. D. 1, Fayette County, issued the call for emergency session Monday at the request of various county disaster groups. The committee is a division of the USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

On the basis of the committee's findings Gov. Lawrence could ask Freeman to declare each county designated a disaster area.

Several areas already have asked the USDA to declare them disaster regions.

$110,000 Is Asked By Edyie, Steve In Elevator Fall

NEW YORK (AP) — Singers Eydie Gorme and her husband, Steve Lawrence, have asked $110,000 in damages as a result of a hotel elevator fall. They were among several persons asking a total of $390,000 in the accident.

The suits, filed Monday in State Supreme Court, grew out of a March 22 accident at the "Hotel 14" at 14 E. 60th St. News accounts at the time said the elevator skidded 10 floors to the basement, where the Copacabana night club is located.

Sherry Hackett, wife of comedian Buddy Hackett, also filed suit, asking $50,000 for injuries which she said were of a permanent nature.

Parleys Resumed On Settlement Of Toledo Strike

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Negotiations have resumed in an effort to settle a six-week strike of 3,700 employes of the Doehler-Jarvis Division of the National Lead Co.

The talks Monday lasted for eight hours, and the bargaining was to continue today. Federal mediators Paul Ricketts of Detroit and Harry Gray of Toledo are taking part.

"All I can say is that we met all day, and we're reconvening Tuesday morning," Gray said.

The talks, which started here Sunday, were the first since June 21 in bargaining which began in mid-March. The old contract expired April 1. Negotiations broke off May 15 in New York when Doehler-Jarvis proposed a 14-cent cut in average hourly wages which the company said were $3.13.

Doeher-Jarvis makes non-ferrous die castings for the auto industry at plants here and in Batavia, N.Y., Grand Rapids, Mich. and Pottstown, Pa.

Harley Peterson, president of the UAW Grand Rapids local, said last month that working conditions, job security and grievance settlement were the main barriers in bargaining—and not the proposed pay cut. The company wanted the pay cut for 10 months and then would restore it over the remainder of a three-year contract.

A company spokesman said the cut was needed for Doehler-Jarvis "to regain its competitive position."

Shorthand Notes Mystery Man Is Free of Murder

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP)—After 12 years under a murder charge, John J. R. Butler was a free man today.

The main reason: a court stenographer, now dead, never transcribed her shorthand notes.

Judge Philip J. Weiss dismissed a first-degree murder indictment against Butler Monday in Niagara County Court on a motion by Butler's attorney. Butler, now 50, had been in the state hospital at Mattaewan for the criminally insane since he was charged with the death in 1950 of a friend's wife.

The woman, Mrs. Lillian Bordeau, 52, was found in the yard of her Niagara Falls home with a rope around her neck.

Butler was declared insane and sent to Mattaewan before the case came to trial. But this year he was adjudged legally sane and returned to the county jail here to await trial.

In dismissing the 12-year-old indictment on a motion by Butler's attorney, Judge Weiss noted that a stenographer who took shorthand minutes of the grand jury proceedings never transcribed her notes. She died in the meantime and experts were unable to translate them.

The judge also noted that the rope found around the woman's neck could not be found and that the cause of her death had not been established by autopsy as murder.

Butler, a fireman from Niagara Falls, maintained that he had no part in the woman's death.

Only One Way to Reach Dummy

BY OSWALD JACOBY

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

What would you do with the South hand after a nuisance opening bid of three diamonds by East?

According to Fred Karpin, Boris Koytchou of New York solved the bidding problem by jumping right to six spades.

West opened the four of diamonds and as North put down the dummy he remarked, "Maybe I should have bid seven."

Boris maintained a discreet silence. That ace and king of clubs could not be reached and Boris had one losing card in each red suit.

However, there might be some way to put them to work. West's diamond lead has surely been a singleton. Maybe he could be thrown into the lead, in which case he would have to play a heart or a club.

Boris led the ace of spades and when East showed out Boris continued with the king and then the deuce.

West had to take the trick with the ten. Even if he had thrown the nine and ten and held on to the three spot he would have been thrown in.

Then Boris showed West his hand and West conceded the contract.

May Make Areas Hit by Drought Disaster Sections

HARRISBURG (AP)—The U.S. Agriculture Department was reported ready today to declare a number of Pennsylvania's drought stricken farm counties disaster areas, making them eligible for special federal aid.

State administration sources said the region which would figure most strongly in any such move by U.S. Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman would be northern tier counties.

Pennsylvania's northern counties' agriculture centers on the dairy industry, which has been particularly hard-hit by the drought. Without rain, pastures have shrivelled resulting in an increase in hay prices.

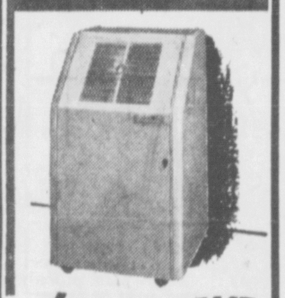

The report of the action by the Agriculture Department came as the state Disaster Committee converged on Harrisburg to decide what should be done about the drought.

Committee Chairman Howard Porter, East Millsboro, R. D. 1, Fayette County, issued the call for emergency session Monday at the request of various county disaster groups. The committee is a division of the USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

On the basis of the committee's findings Gov. Lawrence could ask Freeman to declare each county designated a disaster area.

Several areas already have asked the USDA to declare them disaster regions.

Berta Frey of Woodstock, a weaver and weaving teacher, will be the guest speaker at the July meeting of the Ulster County Historical Society to be held Saturday at the Bevier House in Marbletown.

Miss Frey has taught weaving for some years and wove for New York City decorators. She has exhibited at many museums throughout the country and has many times taken first or second prizes for her linens, woolens and drapery materials.

Miss Frey is a member of the New York City Weavers Guild and the New York State Craftsman's Guild. She owns a collection of various types of weaving.

The guest speaker is a native of Texas, one time New York City resident, and now makes her home in Bearsville.

$110,000 Is Asked By Edyie, Steve In Elevator Fall

NEW YORK (AP) — Singers Eydie Gorme and her husband, Steve Lawrence, have asked $110,000 in damages as a result of a hotel elevator fall. They were among several persons asking a total of $390,000 in the accident.

The suits, filed Monday in State Supreme Court, grew out of a March 22 accident at the "Hotel 14" at 14 E. 60th St. News accounts at the time said the elevator skidded 10 floors to the basement, where the Copacabana night club is located.

Sherry Hackett, wife of comedian Buddy Hackett, also filed suit, asking $50,000 for injuries which she said were of a permanent nature.

SWEETIE PIE By Nadine Seltzer

"Some back yard you have! Mind if we pitch a tent and spend our vacation here?"

Hot Story

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Phoenix Gazette reporter Lloyd Clark covered a meeting of the Phoenix Chamber of Commerce during which a discussion was held on how to attract summer visitors. Several times speakers mentioned that the heat wasn't nearly as bad as some folks claimed. Clark left the meeting, walked into the 107 degree temperature and collapsed of heat exhaustion. He recovered in time to write his story.

Parleys Resumed On Settlement Of Toledo Strike

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Negotiations have resumed in an effort to settle a six-week strike of 3,700 employes of the Doehler-Jarvis Division of the National Lead Co.

The talks Monday lasted for eight hours, and the bargaining was to continue today. Federal mediators Paul Ricketts of Detroit and Harry Gray of Toledo are taking part.

"All I can say is that we met all day, and we're reconvening Tuesday morning," Gray said.

The talks, which started here Sunday, were the first since June 21 in bargaining which began in mid-March. The old contract expired April 1. Negotiations broke off May 15 in New York when Doehler-Jarvis proposed a 14-cent cut in average hourly wages which the company said were $3.13.

Doeher-Jarvis makes non-ferrous die castings for the auto industry at plants here and in Batavia, N.Y., Grand Rapids, Mich. and Pottstown, Pa.

Harley Peterson, president of the UAW Grand Rapids local, said last month that working conditions, job security and grievance settlement were the main barriers in bargaining—and not the proposed pay cut. The company wanted the pay cut for 10 months and then would restore it over the remainder of a three-year contract.

A company spokesman said the cut was needed for Doehler-Jarvis "to regain its competitive position."

Shorthand Notes Mystery Man Is Free of Murder

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP)—After 12 years under a murder charge, John J. R. Butler was a free man today.

The main reason: a court stenographer, now dead, never transcribed her shorthand notes.

Judge Philip J. Weiss dismissed a first-degree murder indictment against Butler Monday in Niagara County Court on a motion by Butler's attorney. Butler, now 50, had been in the state hospital at Mattaewan for the criminally insane since he was charged with the death in 1950 of a friend's wife.

The woman, Mrs. Lillian Bordeau, 52, was found in the yard of her Niagara Falls home with a rope around her neck.

Butler was declared insane and sent to Mattaewan before the case came to trial. But this year he was adjudged legally sane and returned to the county jail here to await trial.

In dismissing the 12-year-old indictment on a motion by Butler's attorney, Judge Weiss noted that a stenographer who took shorthand minutes of the grand jury proceedings never transcribed her notes. She died in the meantime and experts were unable to translate them.

The judge also noted that the rope found around the woman's neck could not be found and that the cause of her death had not been established by autopsy as murder.

Butler, a fireman from Niagara Falls, maintained that he had no part in the woman's death.

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

What would you do with the South hand after a nuisance opening bid of three diamonds by East?

According to Fred Karpin, Boris Koytchou of New York solved the bidding problem by jumping right to six spades.

West opened the four of diamonds and as North put down the dummy he remarked, "Maybe I should have bid seven."

Boris maintained a discreet silence. That ace and king of clubs could not be reached and Boris had one losing card in each red suit.

However, there might be some way to put them to work. West's diamond lead has surely been a singleton. Maybe he could be thrown into the lead, in which case he would have to play a heart or a club.

Boris led the ace of spades and when East showed out Boris continued with the king and then the deuce.

West had to take the trick with the ten. Even if he had thrown the nine and ten and held on to the three spot he would have been thrown in.

Then Boris showed West his hand and West conceded the contract.

Among the passengers on a one-track road in the Middle West was a talkative jewelry drummer. Presently the train stopped to take on water, and the conductor neglected to send back a flagman. An express came along and before it could be stopped it bumped the rear end of the first train. The drummer was lifted from his seat and pitched headfirst into the seat ahead. His hat was jammed clear down over his ears. He picked himself up and settled back in his seat. No bones had been broken. He drew a long breath, straightened up, and said:

Drummer—Well, they didn't get by us, anyway.

Happy is the person who can detect some good in what at first seemed all bad.

A porter was thrown from his car when the train was derailed and flew ten feet through the air before he hit headfirst against a concrete post. He lay in a daze, rubbing his head, when the conductor came running up.

Conductor—Great Scott, man, aren't you killed?

Porter—No, that concrete post musta broke mah fall.

"Before I say another word, Herbie, promise to keep your eyes closed!"

It was a hot Sunday in July. Some twenty little folk sat on a hard bench, while the hot sun poured through the windows, and the teacher's inexperience added to her heat.

The lessen was about the separation of the sheep from the goats. Using her best imaginative powers, the teacher described vividly the wonders of heaven and the horrors of a hot and burning hell. Frank, aged six, on the front bench, listened enrapt, his eyes growing larger and larger.

Teacher—Frank, where would you rather go—to heaven or hell.

Frank—Gee, I'd like to see 'em both.

Miss Rosendale To Be Selected Saturday, 3 P. M.

The Rosendale Chamber of Commerce announces that the selection of Miss Rosendale, 1962, will take place on July 14, at 3:00 p. m., at Sportsman's Park, in Rosendale. Miss Rosendale will be selected from residents of the Township of Rosendale, which includes Bloomington, Whiteport, Creek Locks, Rocklock, LFever Falls, Maple Hill, Binnewater, Tillson, Hickorybush and the village of Rosendale, and those portions of High Falls and Springtown that are within the Township.

Thus far there has been a limited number of entries, namely because of the misunderstanding that the contest was confined to the Village of Rosendale rather than the entire Township. Applications are available at the following locations: Tillson Post Office, Bloomington Post Office, Gilmartin's, Vaughn's, and at the Chamber of Commerce headquarters, 87 Main Street, Rosendale.

It has been recently announced by the Chamber of Commerce that Hubert Richter, Kingston attorney, will be one of the judges for the 1962 Miss Rosendale contest. The remaining two judges will be announced this week.

Last year's Miss Rosendale, Barbara Ann Williams, will crown the new Miss Rosendale 1962. Last year the Chamber of Commerce had the honor of having Kingston Mayor John J. Schwenk serve on the panel of judges, together with Alderman-at-Large Harold Kaye and Mrs. Edmund Ruffner.

It is anticipated that over 250 local residents are going to attend this year's contest, as they did last year, at Sportsman's Park. Tickets will be available from various members of the Chamber of Commerce, as well as is swimming pool, for the day. Those purchasing tickets will be permitted to utilize the facilities of Sportsman's Park, as well as is swimming pool, for the day.

7 More Face Charges Linked to Perversion

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Felony charges of first-degree sodomy have been placed against seven more men in connection with alleged acts of sexual perversion in Onondaga County jails.

Dist. Atty. Joseph A. Ryan said Monday the seven had participated in "kangaroo courts," by which, he contended, youths had been forced to commit unnatural sex acts.

The latest charges raised to 13 the number of prisoners or former prisoners indicted, arrested or sought on the sodomy chages.

Ryan has said that more than 300 acts of sodomy were committed in the county's two jails in the past year.

Percy Lee Hollaway, 24, and Aaron Werts, 19, both of Syracuse, were arrested over the weekend. They pleaded innocent at their arraignments Monday.

Ryan said warrants also were out for John English, 31, serving a term in Attica State Prison on a narcotics conviction, and Thomas Hall, 21, Charles Burney, 25, Frank Hodges, 23, and Aubrey D. Dixon 30, all of Syracuse.

D&H Making No Attempts to Get RR Facilities

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Delaware & Hudson Railroad denies it is negotiating to acquire facilities of the strikebound Rutland Railway in Central and Southern Vermont.

"We haven't conducted any negotations whatsoever," John P. Hiltz, D&H executive vice president, said Monday.

But he added:

"There is always a possibility that if people want us to come and look at their property, we might do some business. So far we haven't done much looking."

William I. Ginsburg, president of Rutland, was reported to have said Sunday that the D&H was negotiating for track between Rutland and Bellows Falls and presumably would provide rail service in the area.

Rutland Railway has been idled by a strike for more than eight months and is awaiting a decision from the Interstate Commerce Commission on its petition to abandon all operations.

The Ogdensburg Bridge and Port Authority has offered to buy Rutland facilities in Northern New York.

Miss Rosendale To Be Selected Saturday, 3 P. M.

The Rosendale Chamber of Commerce announces that the selection of Miss Rosendale, 1962, will take place on July 14, at 3:00 p. m., at Sportsman's Park, in Rosendale. Miss Rosendale will be selected from residents of the Township of Rosendale, which includes Bloomington, Whiteport, Creek Locks, Rocklock, LFever Falls, Maple Hill, Binnewater, Tillson, Hickorybush and the village of Rosendale, and those portions of High Falls and Springtown that are within the Township.

Thus far there has been a limited number of entries, namely because of the misunderstanding that the contest was confined to the Village of Rosendale rather than the entire Township. Applications are available at the following locations: Tillson Post Office, Bloomington Post Office, Gilmartin's, Vaughn's, and at the Chamber of Commerce headquarters, 87 Main Street, Rosendale.

It has been recently announced by the Chamber of Commerce that Hubert Richter, Kingston attorney, will be one of the judges for the 1962 Miss Rosendale contest. The remaining two judges will be announced this week.

Last year's Miss Rosendale, Barbara Ann Williams, will crown the new Miss Rosendale 1962. Last year the Chamber of Commerce had the honor of having Kingston Mayor John J. Schwenk serve on the panel of judges, together with Alderman-at-Large Harold Kaye and Mrs. Edmund Ruffner.

It is anticipated that over 250 local residents are going to attend this year's contest, as they did last year, at Sportsman's Park. Tickets will be available from various members of the Chamber of Commerce, as well as at the door. Those purchasing tickets will be permitted to utilize the facilities of Sportsman's Park, as well as is swimming pool, for the day.

New Pacific Shot Won't Pack Wallop

HONOLULU (AP)—The United States probably will set off two more high altitude nuclear explosions at Johnston Island—but they won't pack the punch of Sunday night's hydrogen superblast.

"There's a good possibility there will be two more detonations at the Johnston site before the nuclear test program ends, an Atomic Energy Commission official said. "It all depends on what scientists learn from the first successful explosion."

May Be Final of Series

The official hinted the original plan of three or four high altitude shots still was in effect. He suggested that one of these would be the final test of the spring and summer series.

He indicated the Christmas Island phase was almost at an end, despite a Joint Task Force 8 directive closing that test zone to ships and planes Monday night. It was understood one of the last shots in the Christmas region was being readied for firing.

Twenty-four nuclear devices have been detonated at Christmas since the test program started April 25. Most of these blasts were at low altitudes.

There was speculation after two earlier attempts at high-altitude detonations failed that the Johnston blasts might be cut to only one or two.

Higher Shot Possible

The original schedule included one shot of the megaton range—that was Sunday's firing—and two tests of less than one million tons of TNT. One was to be at an altitude of "hundreds of kilometers," possibly higher than the big blast Sunday.

The megaton success produced a spectacular show as the thermonuclear flash spread across the ocean and lit skies from Auckland, New Zealand, to Hawaii. Eerie greens, pale pinks and bright oranges and reds blended like a watercolor sunset for more than five minutes.

The device, carried aloft by a Thor missile, was exploded at a height of slightly more than 200 miles. It had a force of more than one million tons of TNT. Unconfirmed reports placed the power at close to 10 million tons.

Ocean Turns Blood Red

Auckland, 3,843 miles southwest of Johnston, was treated to a brilliant fireworks display that turned the ocean blood red.

Heavy clouds over Honolulu obscured the fireball but residents and tourists watched in awe as the sky grew bright with color.

The Soviet Union and Communist China reacted quickly with criticism of the big shot. "Atom maniacs" and "American criminals" were among the charges heaped on the United States. In London, pacifists had to be restrained outside the American embassy.

Western scientists were divided whether the blast upset the delicate radiation balance in outer space. Information being collected from around the world—and presumably from U.S. satellites in orbit—will help to answer this question.

Foreign Affairs News in Demand Editors Are Told

CORNING, N.Y. (AP)—Despite a natural tendency to shield its mistakes, the government today realizes the American public needs more information on the state of the nation than ever before, says a State Department official.

Robert J. Manning, assistant secretary of state for public affairs and a former newspaperman, told the State Society of Newspaper Editors Monday night that the public particularly wants news of this country's involvement in foreign affairs.

"There is a natural tendency in any bureaucracy to shield its misjudgements and its mistakes," Manning said, but added:

"I would say quite flatly, however, that in the top reaches of this government there is a full recognition of the dangers of this tendency to the full operation of the democratic process."

About 50 editors and guests attended Monday night's dinner, meeting.

At an earlier session, Emund C. Arnold, a typography expert, told the editors that typography was of secondary importance to the news.

"The best package in the world will not sell a second-rate content for long," said Arnold, who is chairman of the Graphic Arts Department of the Syracuse University School of Journalism.

Admits Inquiry Of New England Thruway Section

NEW YORK (AP) —Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz has confirmed that a grand jury is investigating multimillion dollar costs for the 15-mile stretch of the New England section of the New York State Thruway in Westchester County.

Lefkowitz confirmed the inquiry Monday after it first was reported by the White Plains Reporter-Dispatch.

The newspaper reported that dozens of witnesses have been called before a Westchester County grand jury in the last two months.

The jury seeks to determine if there were irregularities in building the New England section of the New York State Thruway, which was opened Oct. 18, 1958.

Construction costs on the highway totaled $63 million. Right-of-way purchases and other costs amounted to $28 million.

Says Law Needed On Monopoly in Newspaper Field

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The president of the American Newspaper Guild says Congress should enact laws to stop what he calls the spread of monopoly in the newspaper industry.

"In cities with daily newspapers, 1,417 of 1,478 hear only from a monopoly press," said president Arthur Rosenstock Monday at an opening session of the newspaper union's five-day international convention.

Newspaper circulation in the U. S. and Canada is at 64 million daily, Rosenstock said, describing the figure as a sign of "a booming tomorrow for our industry."

Rosenstock noted that the House Judiciary Committee planned public hearings this fall on cities where recent newspaper mergers have occurred and urged the convention's 250 delegates to prod Congress for legislation.

The Guild has already proposed that the Justice Department move for appraisal of newspaper property offered for sale.

Plans Set for County Convention

Fire Companies Still Have Time to Sign Up for Parade

Final plans for the annual convention of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association, being held this year with Town of Esopus firemen as hosts, have been practically completed.

There may still be some fire companies in the county who have not announced their intention to participate in the parade on Saturday, July 28, but who intend to. It is requested that these companies make known their intention before the end of this week so that they may be assigned a place in the parade.

The chicken barbecue on Thursday night, July 26, at American Legion Home, New Paltz, is an assured success since all 300 tickets have been sold. The dinner will begin at 7 p. m. Entertainment will follow at 9 o'clock.

Friday night, July 27, the annual business meeting will be held at Esopus firehouse at which time election of officers will take place and other business transacted.

The annual session will come to a close on Saturday afternoon when promptly at 5 o'clock some 30 fire companies, accompanied by over 20 musical organizations will participate in the parade.

The parade will form at Clay Road just off Route 9W south of Port Ewen and proceed north over Route 9W to Lampman Avenue in Port Ewen. It will turn west over Bayard Street and south to Stout Avenue thence westerly to Ross Park where it will end.

The reviewing stand will be on Route 9-W Port Ewen at the Town Municipal Auditorium. Total length of the line of march will be 2.2 miles.

After dispersing at Ross Park refreshments will be served and the awarding of a 21-inch Zenith TV will take place.

A meeting of the committee on final arrangements will be held tonight at which time all arrangements for entertainment of guests will take place.

Any company which has not yet notified the committee of participation in the parade may do so by the last of this week and be assigned a position in the parade.

Nesting Mop

CINCINNATI (AP) — Three years ago Mrs Maude Rankin hung up a mop on a back porch nail to dry but she never got to use it again.

A couple of robins picked the scrubbing end of the mop as a place to build a nest and raise a family. They kept coming back each year.

How does she clean her floors now?

"I get down on my hands and knees and scrub, she said. "Gets cleaner that way, anyway."

CHOOSING THE BABY'S NAME

Q: I am expecting a baby in three months and if it is a boy I would like to name him Robert, a name which I have always liked. However, my mother-in-law insists that we name him after her husband (the baby's paternal grandfather). She says it is a family tradition to name the first grandson after his paternal grandfather. My father-in-law's name is one which I dislike very much. I think my mother-in-law is being very unfair in asking me to give my baby a name which displeases me. Must I conform to family tradition or may I call my baby what I like?

A: Although it is your privilege to name your child what you like, before doing so, it would be advisable to consider how seriously your husband's family feels about this tradition. If this custom has been consistently followed for generations, it would be unwise—in the interests of preserving family peace—to break this tradition, unless your father-in-law's name is one which might prove to be a handicap to your son throughout his life.

Guest at a Bachelor Dinner

Q: A friend of mine is going to be married soon and his best man is giving a bachelor dinner for him several nights before the wedding. I have been invited to this dinner and I would like to know if it is customary to bring a present to the bridegroom at this time?

A: Unless there is a plan to give the bridegroom a present from all the guests and you have been asked to contribute a certain amount toward it, you will not be expected to bring any present to the dinner.

Woman Guest at Family Table

Q: When we have a woman guest at table, should all the serving dishes be passed to her first to help herself?

A: The dishes that are nearest to her would be passed to her first, but the dishes on the other side of the table would be passed to her in turn.

Summer Theatres

Controversial Plays Offered at Phoenicia

The Phoenicia Playhouse currently presenting the controversial contemporary drama A Taste of Honey, will next stage Schitzler's comic diatribe on sex and morality, La Ronde.

La Ronde which never fails to evoke strong reaction from the theatre going public will open Tuesday, July 17, and run through Sunday, July 22. The producers would like to run La Ronde two weeks if the response from the public is anything like that which occured at their theatre in Buzzard's Bay, Mass. where the local town council instituted suit against the production, on the grounds that the play was "immoral" and sought to have it banned. That summer, La Ronde which was scheduled for an ordinary weekly run, played to capacity audiences for five weeks out of a ten-week season.

Jordan Hott who directed the Buzzard's Bay production and who offered to stage the "objectionable" scenes in court before the magistrate, will direct the show at Phoenicia. Appearing in La Ronde will be Ed Zang and Jane Cronin, who starred in the season's opener, The Fourposter. They will be joined by Lynn Kevin and Tina Mandas now featured in the current production, A Taste of Honey.

La Ronde is set in 19th century Vienna while A Taste of Honey takes place in modern day Great Britain. Each has in its own way stimulated a great deal of discussion and an equal amount of dissension wherever they have been shown.

A Taste of Honey closes this Sunday, July 15

'Gripping Drama' Opens at Ellenville

The gripping drama, This Too Shall Pass, will be presented from July 10-15 at the recently opened Mt. Cathalia Playhouse, Ellenville. Written by Don Appell, author of the current Broadway hit, Milk and Honey, the play is set in a small midwestern town just after the end of the Korean War.

Young Buddy Alexander returns home from Korea with his GI buddy Max Sorrell. Max and Buddy's sister Janet fall in love and plan to marry but when it is discovered that Max is a Jew, Janet's mother violently objects to her prospective son-in-law. The conflict between the three young people and Janet's parents over the proposed intermarriage builds up to a dramatic climax that is one of the most affecting in theater.

The cast for "This Too Shall Pass," will include Francesca Solano (Janet, Jeanette Matti (Mrs. Alexander), Don Craig Jr. (Dr. Alexander), William E. Dauphin (Max Sorrel) and Richard Wills (Buddy Alexander). Miss Solano has appeared in many stock productions, on the television series, The Defenders and has reecntly studied at the Gene Frankel Workshop in Greenwich Village. Miss Matti has appeared in the off-Broadway productions The Corn Is Green, The Little Foxes, My Three Angels and Teahouse of the August Moon. She has also appeared on radio and television.

Don Craig Jr. has appeared in several off-Broadway productions and in such movies as Mr. Peabody and the Mermaid and Beneath the Twelve Mile Reef. William E. Dauphin began his career with the Rochester Community Players in his native Rochester, N. Y. He has appeared on radio, television and in productions of Death Takes a Holiday, Counselor at Law, Lady in the Dark and Mr. Roberts. Richard Wills has appeared in the off-Broadway production of The Corn Is Green, The Disenchanted and The Book of Job. He is currently working with Cy Cyna of the Actor's Studio.

Performances of This Too Shall Pass will be presented nightly except Monday, at 8:40 and Wednesday and Saturday afternoon at 2:30. Tickets may be obtained by calling the Playhouse at Ellenville, or by writing to the Mt. Cathalia Playhouse, Ellenville. Marriage Go Round will succeed This Too Shall Pass from July 17-22, with six more top Broadway hits set for the remainder of the nine week season.

Vendor's Income Used for Good Cause, Too High

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Joseph Dorrance says he financed the college education of two sons and a daughter from money he earned in selling pennants and other souvenirs to school children visiting the state museum.

But the State Education Department says the vendor is interfering with the educational process of the 200,000 school children who annually visit the museum as part of their regular classroom work. The department has asked the city to revoke Dorrance's vendor's license.

School teachers have complained that they thought Dorrance's prices were too high and that children were spending their lunch money on the trinkets, the department said.

Dorrance, 77, has been a vendor in front of the State Education Building, which contains the museum, for more than 40 years.

Lost and Found

CLARION, Iowa (AP)—A ring that Arthur Mechem of Clarion lost more than 60 years ago was found recently by James White in the driveway of his farm home. Mechem, now more than 80 years old, recalled that when he was a teen-ager he frequently visited friends on the farm now operated by White. He said he had lost the ring during one of those visits.

Beer-loving West Germans consumed 462,000,000 gallons of draught beer in 1960, a postwar record.

The original estimate for the Bowne Building, according to planners in 1958, was 600-650 full-time students. We are still using these original facilities. Our present library facility has a seating capacity for 80 students which is completely inadequate for our September enrollment and has been inadequate for the past two years," Dr. Hall said.

Ex-Supervisor Dies

PEEKSKILL, N. Y. (AP) — William Edward Lane Jr., former supervisor of the Westchester County Town of Cortlandt, died Monday at his home here. He was 81.

Lane, a Democrat, held his last public office in 1952, when he was commissioner of public works here. Earlier, he had served as a Peekskill trustee when the city was a village and was once president of the village council.

Vendor's Income Used for Good Cause, Too High

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Joseph Dorrance says he financed the college education of two sons and a daughter from money he earned in selling pennants and other souvenirs to school children visiting the state museum.

But the State Education Department says the vendor is interfering with the educational process of the 200,000 school children who annually visit the museum as part of their regular classroom work. The department has asked the city to revoke Dorrance's vendor's license.

School teachers have complained that they thought Dorrance's prices were too high and that children were spending their lunch money on the trinkets, the department said.

Dorrance, 77, has been a vendor in front of the State Education Building, which contains the museum, for more than 40 years.

Three Are Injured In Veteran Crash

Cars operated by Kathleen Hanne, 18, of Palenville and Arthur Lamb, 18, of Saugerties were involved in an accident at Veteran, Town of Saugerties, about 11:30 p. m. Monday. The operator of one, Kathleen Hanne, received a neck and back injury. Passengers injured included Carol Howland, 17, Lake Hill, laceration of scalp; George King, 21, U. S. Navy, whose condition was reported as "fair" at Kingston Hospital today. The injured were brought to Kingston Hospital by the H. & S. Ambulance Service of Saugerties.

State Police investigated and reported both vehicles were proceeding west when they collided in passing the Hanne car overturned. Centerville Fire Company responded to wash gasoline from the highway.

Lost and Found

CLARION, Iowa (AP)—A ring that Arthur Mechem of Clarion lost more than 60 years ago was found recently by James White in the driveway of his farm home. Mechem, now more than 80 years old, recalled that when he was a teen-ager he frequently visited friends on the farm now operated by White. He said he had lost the ring during one of those visits.

Beer-loving West Germans consumed 462,000,000 gallons of draught beer in 1960, a postwar record.

SNEAD COMES OUT OF BUNKER—Sam Snead blasts from bunker below the 5th green on Troon course at Troon, Scotland, during first qualifying round for the British Open Championship. The White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., veteran, who won the British crown at St. Andrews in 1946, shot a 69. (AP Wirephoto by radio from London)

Snead Shoots 69 in Scotland, Other Americans Far Behind

TROON, Scotland (AP)—Three titans of American golf faced the nerve shattering assignment today of breaking par or catching the next plane home.

Masters' champion Palmer defending his 1961 British Open Crown and U.S. Open king Nicklaus stumbled around Old Troon Monday in 76 blows. Today they tour neighboring Lochgreen and if they fail to bust par 72 comfortably they are in serious jeopardy. Rodgers, with his first round 75, is scarcely any better off.

By tonight an original field of 355 aspirants will be reduced to 120. The way Troon and Lochgreen are playing in warm, clear weather most experts expect that anything over a total of 148 will fail to reach the Open proper.

The Open itself, 72 holes of medal play, gets underway Wednesday.

Nagle Set Record

None of the pros concerned himself especially with the electric performance put on by Kel Nagle of Australia when he broke Lochgreen course record by one shot. His 65 was fashioned with a driver, a wedge and a putter on a layout dried out by days of scorching sun and wind from inland.

The pressure is mainly on Palmer, the 2-1 favorite to retain the championship he won at Birkdale in England last year. The Latrobe, Pa. powerhouse was unhappy about his game and also about his stomach. He also had a complaint about his shoulder muscle. Those who know Palmer were inclined to scoff a bit.

"Look out for him when he says he isn't feeling well," said Dai Rees, British Ryder Cup captain.

Weatherbeaten Sam Snead, 50, and 1961 U.S. Open champion Gene Littler lay back in the most comfortable of positions. All Snead did was crack around lengthened Troon in 69, with three birdies on the first four holes. Littler coasted around in 71.

So did Gary Player, the mite-sized South African who combines a gentle gaze with a fierce talent for collecting all the money.

Legion Boys Gain City League Win Behind McAndrew

Old Capitol Motors, composed of Kingston American Legion players, made a successful debut in the City Baseball League last night, trimming the Kingston Merchants, 12-0, behind the pitching of Lonnie McAndrew.

The winners threw up a tight defense to back McAndrew, who struck out 10 and didn't issue a pass. Richie Sickler and Vinnie Smedes each walloped two-run homers and Smedes also swiped home in the seventh.

This was a close game until the fifth. Leading by only a 2-0 count, the Legion team tallied five markers in the fifth and then added three runs in the sixth and two in the seventh.

Tomorrow night at Dietz Stadium the Kingston Braves will meet the Eagles, a City League club, in an exhibition contest at 8:15 o'clock.

Mrs. deLisio Gets 91, Plays Mrs. Allen Today

Mrs. A. J. (Wiggie) de Lisio of Woodstock shot a 91 in the qualifying round of the New York State Womeg's Golf Championship yesterday at Cooperstown. Mrs. deLisio will play Mrs. Philip Allen of Syracuse, the titlist in 1941, in the first round today. Mrs. Allen carded an 81 yesterday over the women's par 75 Cooperstown Country Club.

Mrs. Maxon Berger of Buffalo led the qualifiers with a 76. She's a former champion, having won the crown in 1953.

Gail Purdy, Saratoga Springs, the 1961 champion, didn't take part in the qualifying round. The 20-year old star will face Linda Leader, Schenectady, today in the first round.

A total of 32 women qualified with the cutoff score for the first round being 95. Six of the 70 women were tied at 95 after 18 holes and Nancy Gunther of Troy won a playoff with a par 5 on the second hole to grab the last of the places for the championship flight.

Major League Players Seeking 153 Game Slate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The baseball players' request for a reduced schedule in 1963 will be considered by the two major leagues, but there may be a serious disagreement about playing two All-Star games after 1962.

The American League is expected to give serious consideration to the players' suggestion to pare the schedule from 162 games to 153.

National League owners soon will examine drafts of two proposed schedules. One will call for 153 games, or 17 with each other team in the league, and the other will call for the 162 games to be played this season.

Neither league has a meeting scheduled until December but the National, at least, probably will have a special summer session in August.

The American League took a firm stand against a second All-Star game last December when it reluctantly approved the two games for 1962. It said no request for a renewal would be considered in the future. Apparently there has been no change in that stand.

The National League has an open mind on the subject and might go along with the players' requests. However, both leagues must agree.

The majors have played two All-Star games for the player pension fund since 1959.

The players' main consideration at Monday's meeting was some relief from the 162-game schedule.

Nadler, Subway Softball Winners

Nadler Motors, paced by the four-hit pitching of W. C. Lindsay, whitewashed Sickler's 35 Club, 7-0, in a City Softball League game last evening. It was the 10th win of the season for the circuit leaders.

In another tilt, Subway topped Bloomington, 13-2, with Bob Lasher allowing only five hits.

Nadler's scored early and often against loser Don Grubaugh. The winners picked up three runs in the opening frame, added two more in the second and one in the third. Jim Ferraro rapped two singles and scored three runs to lead the attack.

George Greico homered for Subway while the rest of the players contributed to the 13 hit attack. Lasher aided his cause with a pair of doubles while Smith had a triple.

Snead Shoots 69 in Scotland, Other Americans Far Behind

TROON, Scotland (AP)—Three titans of American golf faced the nerve shattering assignment today of breaking par or catching the next plane home.

Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Phil Rodgers went into the second 18-hole qualifying round of the British Open championship with an anchor around their necks.

Masters' champion Palmer defending his 1961 British Open Crown and U.S. Open king Nicklaus stumbled around Old Troon Monday in 76 blows. Today they tour neighboring Lochgreen and if they fail to bust par 72 comfortably they are in serious jeopardy. Rodgers, with his first round 75, is scarcely any better off.

By tonight an original field of 355 aspirants will be reduced to 120. The way Troon and Lochgreen are playing in warm, clear weather most experts expect that anything over a total of 148 will fail to reach the Open proper.

The Open itself, 72 holes of medal play, gets underway Wednesday.

Nagle Set Record

None of the pros concerned himself especially with the electric performance put on by Kel Nagle of Australia when he broke Lochgreen course record by one shot. His 65 was fashioned with a driver, a wedge and a putter on a layout dried out by days of scorching sun and wind from inland.

The pressure is mainly on Palmer, the 2-1 favorite to retain the championship he won at Birkdale in England last year. The Latrobe, Pa. powerhouse was unhappy about his game and also about his stomach. He also had a complaint about his shoulder muscle. Those who know Palmer were inclined to scoff a bit.

"Look out for him when he says he isn't feeling well," said Dai Rees, British Ryder Cup captain.

Weatherbeaten Sam Snead, 50, and 1961 U.S. Open champion Gene Littler lay back in the most comfortable of positions. All Snead did was crack around lengthened Troon in 69, with three birdies on the first four holes. Littler coasted around in 71.

So did Gary Player, the mite-sized South African who combines a gentle gaze with a fierce talent for collecting all the money.

Legion Boys Gain City League Win BehindMcAndrew

Old Capitol Motors, composed of Kingston American Legion players, made a successful debut in the City Baseball League last night, trimming the Kingston Merchants, 12-0, behind the pitching of Lonnie McAndrew.

The winners threw up a tight defense to back McAndrew, who struck out 10 and didn't issue a pass. Richie Sickler and Vinnie Smedes each walloped two-run homers and Smedes also swiped home in the seventh.

This was a close game until the fifth. Leading by only a 2-0 count, the Legion team tallied five markers in the fifth and then added three runs in the sixth and two in the seventh.

Tomorrow night at Dietz Stadium the Kingston Braves will meet the Eagles, a City League club, in an exhibition contest at 8:15 o'clock.

Mrs. deLisio Gets 91, Plays Mrs. Allen Today

Mrs. A. J. (Wiggie) de Lisio of Woodstock shot a 91 in the qualifying round of the New York State Women's Golf Championship yesterday at Cooperstown. Mrs. deLisio will play Mrs. Philip Allen of Syracuse, the titlist in 1941, in the first round today. Mrs. Allen carded an 81 yesterday over the women's par 75 Cooperstown Country Club.

Mrs. Maxon Berger of Buffalo led the qualifiers with a 76. She's a former champion, having won the crown in 1953.

Gail Purdy, Saratoga Springs, the 1961 champion, didn't take part in the qualifying round. The 20-year old star will face Linda Leader, Schenectady, today in the first round.

A total of 32 women qualified with the cutoff score for the first round being 35. Six of the 70 women were tied at 95 after 18 holes and Nancy Gunther of Troy won a playoff with a par 5 on the second hole to grab the last of the places for the championship flight.

Major League Players Seeking 153 Game Slate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The baseball players' request for a reduced schedule in 1963 will be considered by the two major leagues, but there may be a serious disagreement about playing two All-Star games after 1962.

The American League is expected to give serious consideration to the players' suggestion to pare the schedule from 162 games to 153.

National League owners soon will examine drafts of two proposed schedules. One will call for 153 games, or 17 with each other team in the league, and the other will call for the 162 games to be played this season.

Neither league has a meeting scheduled until December but the National, at least, probably will have a special summer session in August.

The American League took a firm stand against a second All-Star game last December when it reluctantly approved the two games for 1962. It said no request for a renewal would be considered in the future. Apparently there has been no change in that stand.

The National League has an open mind on the subject and might go along with the players' requests. However, both leagues must agree.

The majors have played two All-Star games for the player pension fund since 1959.

The players' main consideration at Monday's meeting was some relief from the 162-game schedule.

Nadler, Subway Softball Winners

Nadler Motors, paced by the four-hit pitching of W. C. Lindsay, whitewashed Sickler's 35 Club, 7-0, in a City Softball League game last evening. It was the 10th win of the season for the circuit leaders.

In another tilt, Subway topped Bloomington, 13-2, with Bob Lasher allowing only five hits.

Nadler's scored early and often against loser Don Grubaugh. The winners picked up three runs in the opening frame, added two more in the second and one in the third. Jim Ferraro rapped two singles and scored three runs to lead the attack.

George Greico homered for Subway while the rest of the players contributed to the 13 hit attack. Lasher aided his cause with a pair of doubles while Smith had a triple.

Woodstock Open Tourney Slated For Monday, July 16

NBA Gives Terms to Admit Cleveland Pipers Into League

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Basketball Association, resuming its meeting over the admission of Cleveland's American Basketball League franchise, appeared ready today to present Pipers' president George Steinbrenner with its terms.

The NBA recessed its meeting late Monday night after a long and reported stormy session in which the owners were said to have agreed to the terms that would be presented to Steinbrenner.

It then apparently rests with Steinbrenner to accept or reject the terms that would bring Cleveland and its highly touted star, Jerry Lucas, into the older pro circuit as its 10th member. If Steinbrenner accepts, it likely would mean the end of the one-year-old ABL.

Steinbrenner, who was in another room of the hotel where the NBA owners met, said after the meeting had recessed Monday night that nothing had been decided definitely.

"In fact," he said, "we haven't been in the meetings. We've been completely on the outside. We've been watching TV."

While Steinbrenner and his staff were watching TV, the NBA was reported to have hammered out terms which would include the payment of a $300,000 franchise fee plus a $100,000 performance bond. The franchise fee would be spread among the in present NBA teams.

A large share, if the deal is consummated, is expected to go to the NBA's Cincinnati Royals, who balked at letting Cleveland into the league. Lucas, three-time All-America from Ohio State, turned down a Royals' offer to sign with the Pipers.

Pro, Amateur Stars in Area Will Participate

The annual Woodstock Open — traditional, common battleground of region's professional and amateur golf stars—will be staged Monday, July 16, at the Woodstock Country Club links.

The 27-hole medal tournament, is open to all PGA professionals and amateurs with handicaps of five or lower.

Fred Lux, veteran Dutchess Golf and Country Club professional, is the defending champion. Lux has consistently finished among the top six players in recent years.

Heading the star-studded field will be the perennial champion, Armand Farina, doughty Schenectady Municipal ace, who has won five Woodstock Open titles and holds the tournament record of 98. Farina has been playing on a limited schedule this year, but the Woodstock course always inspires him to great deeds.

Other former champions in the professional division include Alex Gerlak of Twaalfskill and Walter Brown, U. S. Military Academy pro at West Point.

Several New Threats

Two top threats in the newer crop of Northeastern PGA pros are Claude Young of Totem Lodge and Charlie Sheppard of Pine Brook. Sheppard is a former Maine Open champion and starred in the National PGA Seniors at Dunedin, Fla., this past winter.

Long hitting Steve Savel of Western Turnpike will be on hand seeking a title that has eluded him through the years. Ditto for J. Carson Hutchins, the home pro, who turned in his best performance in 1961.

Other Northeastern pros expected include: Bob Mix, Albany Country Club; Frank Stuhler, Antlers (Amsterdam); John Gaucas, the rotund Northeastern secretary who plays out of Van Schaick; Alex Sinclair, Mohawk, former district champion.

Jim Hutchins, the Woodstock pro, said there was an outside chance that Tom Creavy of Saratoga Spa, former National PGA champion, might make an appearance.

Also expected are Bill Gressick, Catskill; Charlie Paris, Normanside; Bob Smith, Wolferts Roost; Ray Smith, Rip Van Winkle; Scotty Robertson, Wiltwyck; Jim Farina, Guy Farina; Jim Murray, Amsterdam; Len Pedulla, Highmount; Charlie DeStefano, Poughkeepsie; Joe Ford, Ballston; Jack Maxwell, Stamford; Scotty Robertson, Wiltwyck; and others.

The amateur contingent is headed by Bill Van Aken of Woodstock, the 1960 winners, Ray Billows, the great Poughkeepsie amateur who won seven New York State Amateur crowns, will make his annual pilgrimage to Woodstock. The Waterous family of Allen, Herb and Bill will be in the field, along with George Hughes of Twaalfskill, Dom Mangino, Albany; Walt Kubica, Pittsfield and Joe Smith of Schenectady.

Frank Ervin's Lady Jewel is the second choice at 7-2. The Good Time miss shows two wins in four starts and a 2.08 record. Both triumphs were chalked up at Goshen last week.

Native Hanover, trained by Billy Haughton, and Lantana, handled by Johnny Patterson Looma Loom as other prime threats. Teri, Shadow Play, Little Miss Adios, Sarah Z, and Nevele Kathleen make up the rest of the nine horse field and are the longshots.

Timely Beauty, straight heat winner at Goshen, is the 3-1 choice for the second division. Ervin will drive the daughter of Good Time from No. 4. She put together 2:04.4 and 2:05.2 wins at Historic Track, winning each time handily.

Harry's Laura, from the rail with Hodgins, is listed at 4-1. Other top contenders are Rite Freight (5-1) and Freight Que (9-2). The second division will also feature nine starters. Each division will be worth $7,913.

Impish Favored

Hambletonian favorite Impish is the 5-2 favorite for the Dunnigan. The daughter of 1956 Hambletonian winner, the intruder, trounced rivals in straight heats of the $15,603 Coaching Club Oaks at Goshen. She shattered the event record with a 2:02.4 first heat and came back to win the second whirl in 2:04.1.

Impish boasts tremendous credentials as a two-year-old. She rates as the fastest juvenile trotter of all time on a mile track with a 1:58.3 record at Lexington. She also holds the freshman record for her sex on a double oval with a 2:03.3 clocking at Delaware. Impish was voted the top two-year-old trotter of 1961 and was third in the overall balloting for horse of the year of honors.

She's been beaten only twice in her career in 14 starts. This season the Eaton Ridge Farm flyer has won all three starts and already has winnings of $14,430.

Del Miller's Spry Rodney is pegged at 4-1 and looms as the No. 1 contender for Impish. Spry won 21 of 35 starts as a freshman and banked $57,893. She's won two of seven races this year, but in 2:06.1. Miller will leave with Spry from No. 4.

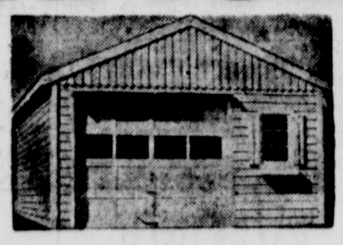

Worth Seein' and Noted Hanover are 7-2 in the line and Silky 5-1, Stardel Hanover (6-1), Laurita Hanover (6-1) and Clorinda Hanover (10-1) round out the eight-hourse lineup.

Unnatural Gait

Runners Easy to Train Compared to Trotters

By BILL McCORMICK
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

YONKERS, N. Y.—(NEA)—Like most of harness racing's senior statesmen, Morris MacDonald looks more like a bucolic banker.

Unlike most guys who have been around the track long enough to have horse sense, the 54-year-old trainer and driver has a vocabulary beyond "Nope," "Yep," "Maybe" and "Ugh."

Not that MacDonald is exactly a chatterbox, but he communicates—especially on the difficulties of training horses to trot and pace as opposed to the comparative ease of coaxing the maximum miles per hour out of runners.

"There's no comparison," said the stockey jockey standing at the rail in the paddock between heats at Yonkers Raceway. "All there is to training a thoroughbred is getting him into condition to do what comes naturally—run. A harness horse must be taught an unnatural gait—and made to stay within it at top speed, when his inborn inclination is to cut loose and run."

MacDonald trained thoroughbreds before taking to the sulkies in his native Canada.

"The big secret of training standardbreds is patience," he said. "Especially trotters."

Most colts are halter broken when they are only a few days old, to get them accustomed to people. They are introduced to harness by degrees, usually one piece at a time. A real skittish pupil may be left in the stall wearing the paraphernalia until it gets used to the equipment.

For several days the trainer walks behind the yearling, reins in hand, teaching it to turn and respond to commands. After that, the candidate is hitched to a training cart.

"Then the painstaking work begins," MacDonald said. "You have to make the colt go faster and faster without ever getting out of his gait. All horses break into a trot naturally at a certain speed. Bit by bit, you get them used to going faster in the gait."

The difficulties with pacers, or sidewheelers, are much the same, but the trainer is helped by hobbles, or leather straps encircling the front and hind legs on the same side to keep those legs moving in unison.

Balance is as important to a harness horse as it is to a high wire artist.

"Shoes help a lot," MacDonald pointed out. "We usually can juggle them around to create equilibrium."

Harness horses are driven 350 miles or more before even going to the races.

"Even the warmups these horses take before each race would kill a thoroughbred," MacDonald pointed out. He flicked a stray piece of paper from the track with his whip, which brought him to the subject of driving.

"Position is as important in this game as it is in billiards, he said. "Take that turn. It's banked to the center, then tapers off to the outside. Three horses can negotiate it without trouble. A fourth horse, on the outside, would be going downhill, aimed at the stands, coming out of it. That's one of the things you have to watch.

"Don't get me wrong. I like thoroughbred racing," insisted Morris MacDonald as he stretched his legs in the sulky for another drive. "Even though, or maybe because, it's so much easier.

"I'm trying to buy a couple of runners right now."

NBA Gives Terms to Admit Cleveland Pipers Into League

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Basketball Association, resuming its meeting over the admission of Cleveland's American Basketball League franchise, appeared ready today to present Pipers' president George Steinbrenner with its terms.

The NBA recessed its meeting late Monday night after a long and reported stormy session in which the owners were said to have agreed to the terms that would be presented to Steinbrenner.

It then apparently rests with Steinbrenner to accept or reject the terms that would bring Cleveland and its highly touted star, Jerry Lucas, into the older pro circuit as its 10th member. If Steinbrenner accepts, it likely would mean the end of the one-year-old ABL.

Steinbrenner, who was in another room of the hotel where the NBA owners met, said after the meeting had recessed Monday night that nothing had been decided definitely.

"In fact," he said, "we haven't been in the meetings. We've been completely on the outside. We've been watching TV."

While Steinbrenner and his staff were watching TV, the NBA was reported to have hammered out terms which would include the payment of a $300,000 franchise fee plus a $100,000 performance bond. The franchise fee would be spread among the in present NBA teams.

A large share, if the deal is consummated, is expected to go to the NBA's Cincinnati Royals, who balked at letting Cleveland into the league. Lucas, three-time All-America from Ohio State, turned down a Royals' offer to sign with the Pipers.

Pro, Amateur Stars in Area Will Participate

The annual Woodstock Open — traditional, common battleground of region's professional and amateur golf stars—will be staged Monday, July 16, at the Woodstock Country Club links.

The 27-hole medal tournament, is open to all PGA professionals and amateurs with handicaps of five or lower.

Fred Lux, veteran Dutchess Golf and Country Club professional, is the defending champion. Lux has consistently finished among the top six players in recent years.

Heading the star-studded field will be the perennial champion, Armand Farina, doughty Schenectady Municipal ace, who has won five Woodstock Open titles and holds the tournament record of 98. Farina has been playing on a limited schedule this year, but the Woodstock course always inspires him to great deeds.

Other former champions in the professional division include Alex Gerlak of Twaalfskill and Walter Brown, U. S. Military Academy pro at West Point.

Several New Threats

Two top threats in the newer crop of Northeastern PGA pros are Claude Young of Totem Lodge and Charlie Sheppard of Pine Brook. Sheppard is a former Maine Open champion and starred in the National PGA Seniors at Dunedin, Fla., this past winter.

Long hitting Steve Savel of Western Turnpike will be on hand seeking a title that has eluded him through the years. Ditto for J. Carson Hutchins, the home pro, who turned in his best performance in 1961.

Other Northeastern pros expected include: Bob Mix, Albany Country Club; Frank Stuhler, Antlers (Amsterdam); John Gaucas, the rotund Northeastern secretary who plays out of Van Schaick; Alex Sinclair, Mohawk, former district champion.

Jim Hutchins, the Woodstock pro, said there was an outside chance that Tom Creavy of Saratoga Spa, former National PGA champion, might make an appearance.

Also expected are Bill Gressick, Catskill; Charlie Paris, Normanside; Bob Smith, Wolferts Roost; Ray Smith, Rip Van Winkle; Scotty Robertson, Wiltwyck; Jim Farina, Guy Farina; Jim Murray, Amsterdam; Len Pedulla, Highmount; Charlie DeStefano, Poughkeepsie; Joe Ford, Ballston; Jack Maxwell, Stamford; Scotty Robertson, Wiltwyck; and others.

The amateur contingent is headed by Bill Van Aken of Woodstock, the 1960 winners, Ray Billows, the great Poughkeepsie amateur who won seven New York State Amateur crowns, will make his annual pilgrimage to Woodstock. The Waterous family of Allen, Herb and Bill will be in the field, along with George Hughes of Twaalfskill, Dom Mangino, Albany; Walt Kubica, Pittsfield and Joe Smith of Schenectady.

Top Fillies Are in Spotlight Tonight at Monticello Track

MONTICELLO—Distaff horses will be featured tonight at Monticello Raceway as grand circuit racing continues into its second night of a week's long stand at the Sullivan County resort track.

The $15,827 Green Mountain Maid Pace and the $10,742 Senator John J. Dunnigan Trot will be featured with top filly hopefuls in the limelight.

The Green Mountain Maid will be contested in two divisions in the third and fourth races and will bring together outstanding two-year-old fillies. The Dunnigan is for three-year-olds and will be raced as the feature in the seventh race.

Moon Glitter, driven by Clint Hodgins, is the 3-1 morning line favorite for the first division of the Green Mt. The daughter of Knight Dream will open from the five post and will be seeking her third win in her 10th start. She has a 2.09 mark at Buffalo. Her last two efforts resulted in a second and third at Saratoga.

Frank Ervin's Lady Jewel is the second choice at 7-2. The Good Time miss shows two wins in four starts and a 2.08 record. Both triumphs were chalked up at Goshen last week.

Native Hanover, trained by Billy Haughton, and Lantana, handled by Johnny Patterson Looma Loom as other prime threats. Teri, Shadow Play, Little Miss Adios, Sarah Z, and Nevele Kathleen make up the rest of the nine horse field and are the longshots.

Timely Beauty, straight heat winner at Goshen, is the 3-1 choice for the second division. Ervin will drive the daughter of Good Time from No. 4. She put together 2:04.4 and 2:05.2 wins at Historic Track, winning each time handily.

Harry's Laura, from the rail with Hodgins, is listed at 4-1. Other top contenders are Rite Freight (5-1) and Freight Que (9-2). The second division will also feature nine starters. Each division will be worth $7,913.

Impish Favored

Hambletonian favorite Impish is the 5-2 favorite for the Dunnigan. The daughter of 1956 Hambletonian winner, the intruder, trounced rivals in straight heats of the $15,603 Coaching Club Oaks at Goshen. She shattered the event record with a 2:02.4 first heat and came back to win the second whirl in 2:04.1.

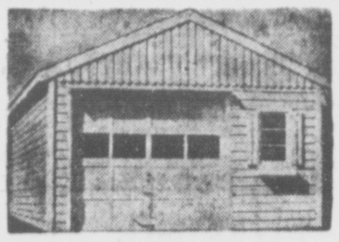

Impish boasts tremendous credentials as a two-year-old. She rates as the fastest juvenile trotter of all time on a mile track with a 1:58.3 record at Lexington. She also holds the freshman record for her sex on a double oval with a 2:03.3 clocking at Delaware. Impish was voted the top two-year-old trotter of 1961 and was third in the overall balloting for horse of the year of honors.

She's been beaten only twice in her career in 14 starts. This season the Eaton Ridge Farm flyer has won all three starts and already has winnings of $14,430.

Del Miller's Spry Rodney is pegged at 4-1 and looms as the No. 1 contender for Impish. Spry won 21 of 35 starts as a freshman and banked $57,893. She's won two of seven races this year, but in 2:06.1, Miller will leave with Spry from No. 4.

Worth Seein' and Noted Hanover are 7-2 in the line and Silky 5-1. Stardel Hanover (6-1), Laurita Hanover (6-1) and Clorinda Hanover (10-1) round out the eight-hourse lineup.

Unnatural Gait

Runners Easy to Train Compared to Trotters

By BILL McCORMICK
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

YONKERS, N. Y.—(NEA)—Like most of harness racing's senior statesmen, Morris MacDonald looks more like a bucolic banker.

Unlike most guys who have been around the track long enough to have horse sense, the 54-year-old trainer and driver has a vocabulary beyond "Nope," "Yep," "Maybe" and "Ugh."

Not that MacDonald is exactly a chatterbox, but he communicates—especially on the difficulties of training horses to trot and pace as opposed to the comparative ease of coaxing the maximum miles per hour out of runners.

"There's no comparison," said the stockey jockey standing at the rail in the paddock between heats at Yonkers Raceway. "All there is to training a thoroughbred is getting him into condition to do what comes naturally—run. A harness horse must be taught an unnatural gait—and made to stay within it at top speed, when his inborn inclination is to cut loose and run."

MacDonald trained thoroughbreds before taking to the sulkies in his native Canada.

Most colts are halter broken when they are only a few days old, to get them accustomed to people. They are introduced to harness by degrees, usually one piece at a time. A real skittish pupil may be left in the stall wearing the paraphernalia until it gets used to the equipment.

For several days the trainer walks behind the yearling, reins in hand, teaching it to turn and respond to commands. After that, the candidate is hitched to a training cart.

"Then the painstaking work begins," MacDonald said. "You have to make the colt go faster and faster without ever getting out of his gait. All horses break into a trot naturally at a certain speed. Bit by bit, you get them used to going faster in the gait."

The difficulties with pacers, or sidewheelers, are much the same, but the trainer is helped by hobbles, or leather straps encircling the front and hind legs on the same side to keep those legs moving in unison.

Balance is as important to a harness horse as it is to a high wire artist.

"Shoes help a lot," MacDonald pointed out. "We usually can juggle them around to create equilibrium."

Harness horses are driven 350 miles or more before even going to the races.

"Even the warmups these horses take before each race would kill a thoroughbred," MacDonald pointed out. He flicked a stray piece of paper from the track with his whip, which brought him to the subject of driving.

"Position is as important in this game as it is in billiards, he said. "Take that turn. It's banked to the center, then tapers off to the outside. Three horses can negotiate it without trouble. A fourth horse, on the outside, would be going downhill, aimed at the stands, coming out of it. That's one of the things you have to watch.

"Don't get me wrong. I like thoroughbred racing," insisted Morris MacDonald as he stretched his legs in the sulky for another drive. "Even though, or maybe because, it's so much easier.

"I'm trying to buy a couple of runners right now."

Two Side With Brown in Rocky Debate on Gains

NEW YORK—Two Democrats aspiring to the governorship have attacked Gov. Rockefeller's claims regarding the state's economic growth.

They are Howard J. Samuels, Canandaigua industrialist, and Dist. Atty. Frank D. O'Connor of Queens.

They said, in statements issued Monday with Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California, who has been debating with Rockefeller as to which state has the better economic climate.

Samuels said Rockefeller's arguments were "based on a form of statistical legerdemain."

He said they represented "either desperate political attempts to justify an unsatisfactory record, or indications that he has no real understanding of the basic reasons for business location."

Samuels said he could testify, from his own efforts at bringing new industry into the state, that the Rockefeller administration program was "neither aggressive nor imaginative."

"I can state unequivocally," Samuels said, "that the state was of no material assistance in selling these firms on the desirability of New York State as a center for new industry."

O'Connor, referring to Brown, said Rockefeller had "chosen the wrong man to debate" on the economic climate of the state.

Both Samuels and O'Connor hit at Rockefeller on unemployment.

Samuels said Rockefeller sought credit because "more than one of every 20 New Yorkers has no job."

O'Connor said joblessness in the state had been above the national average for the last three years.

Talks for Fuel Center Going On

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiations between the Atomic Energy Commission and the Baltimore firm which wants to build a nuclear fuels center in Cattaragus County, N. Y., have been underway for several months.

But the commission would say today only that the negotiations with the Davison Chemical Co., Baltimore, are "progressing."

The commission said no application had been filed with it yet for permission to build the $22 million center for reclaiming nuclear fuels and storing atomic wastes.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York said last week that the facility would be located on state-owned land in Cattaraugus County under a tentative agreement with Nuclear Fuel Services, Inc., a subsidiary of W. R. Grace & Co.

Low Water Troublesome

JOHNSTOWN, N. Y. (AP)—A 5½-foot drop in the level of Sacandaga reservoir is proving troublesome for motorboat-owners.

Sheriff Chris Pencheff says at least a half dozen boaters have reported striking rocky ledges and islands now only a few inches under water. Some boats lost propellers, drive-pins were sheared on others and one boat was ripped apart, he says.

Little rain has fallen in this Adirondack area in more than a month.

Resnick Assisted In Strangling Self, Trial Told

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Retired jeweler Samuel L. Resnick of Albany, N. Y., helped four men pull the rope that strangled him last March 1, a defendant testified Monday.

The testimony came from John Henry Lewis Jones, 21, one of five Phoenix Negroes charged with first-degree murder in the slaying. Also on trial are Jesse Tillis, 19; R. E. Jackson, 21; his brother Clemmie Lee Jackson, 19, and and Ernest Spurlock, 20.

All have admitted the killing but insist Resnick hired them to do it. They say Resnick told them he had incurable concer and wanted his wife and son to benefit from his double indemnity insurance policy.

Although not present for the killing, Clemmie Jackson was charged as the man who handled arrangements.

Replying to prosecutor Walter Kessler, Jones said, "Mr. Sam had his hands on the rope while we was pulling."

"What was Resnick doing?" Kessler demanded.

"He was pulling, too," Jones answered.

Chichester Man Found on Road Following Search

Daniel Zimmerman, 63, of Chichester who was the object of a wide search Monday evening by some 50 to 60 volunteers, sheriff's deputies, state police and firemen, was located this morning shortly after 7 o'clock walking along Route 212, headed toward Hunter. He was taken to the Phoenicia state police station and later, after questioning, allowed to return to his home after relatives in New York were notified. They will come to Ulster County and assume charge of Zimmerman.

Trooper Charles Bundschuh of the Phoenicia station said Zimmerman resided alone at Chichester and after disposing of a quantity of personal belongings Monday disappeared. The search was instituted by state troopers, Sheriff Claude Bell, Undersheriff Clayton W. Vredenburgh, County Identification Officer Earl Conro and other deputies. When Zimmerman was not located volunteers were enlisted to aid in the search and many volunteers from the area and volunteer firemen joined the search.

Later Trooper Bundschuh sought assistance of Putnam County Undersheriff Crooston and the Putnam County bloodhounds. The bloodhounds picked up the trail and were hard on the track, apparently some miles behind the man, when at 10 p. m. the dogs were called off for the night due to darkness and the possibility the trail might lead deep into the woods. The trail was picked up again this morning but before the bloodhounds reached Zimmerman he had been located walking along the road. When located he was in good physical condition.

New York Driver Fined $100 on Drunken Charge

A New York City man was fined $100 by Justice of the Peace Glenford Myers, Town of Saugerties for driving while intoxicated.

Jack E. Morgan, 1762 First Avenue, was arrested Monday evening on the New York State Thruway by Trooper J. F. McDonald of the Thruway Police. He was confined to the Ulster County jail overnight and arraigned before Justice Myers this morning.

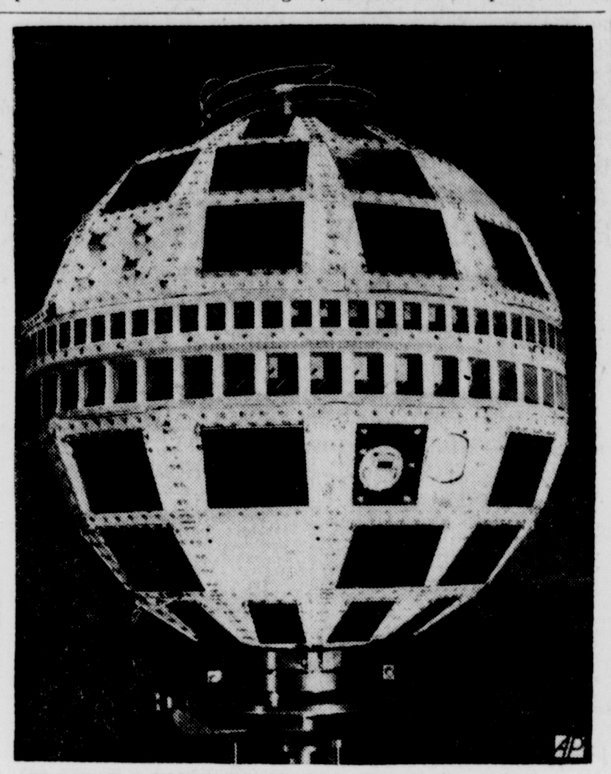

His operator's permit was automatically revoked upon being found guilty of driving while intoxicated.

Crushed Under Car

CLEVELAND, N. Y. (AP) — Lyle T. Bunn drove his automobile up a roadside bank to repair the universal joint, set the emergency brake, put the vehicle in gear and crawled underneath.

State Police said the car slipped out of gear as Bunn removed the universal joint Monday night. The vehicle rolled back, crushing Bunn to death.

Bunn, 27, of Constantia, was working on the car four miles north of this Oswego County community.

TELSTAR SATELLITE ORBITS—This is the Bell System's Telstar experimental communications satellite which was successfully launched at 3:55 a. m. today atop a towering three-stage Thor-Delta rocket. If all goes well, officials scheduled the first communications test with the satellite about 7 o'clock tonight. The Telstar is powered by 3,600 solar cells which obtain energy from the sun. At top is a helical antenna to transmit tracking signals. Girdling center are two antennas, the upper receiving on 6390 megacycles and the lower sending on 4170 megacycles. (AP Wirephoto.)

Telstar Orbiting

around the earth was two hours and 36 minutes.

In Position About 7 P.M.

Scientists now must wait out the long hours until tonight before they can get an idea how successful the Telstar might be. The satellite is to be in position about 6 p.m., EST, for the first test to determine how effectively the vehicle can serve as a communications transfer point.

If the initial trials are successful, the three major U.S. television networks plan to pipe the program into American homes tonight.

Eye Fifth Orbit

Officials of AT&T said they hoped to conduct their first test transmissions to the satellite on the fifth orbit, about 12 hours after launch.

If preliminary tests are possible at that time, full-scale transmissions will take place during the sixth orbit, about 15 hours after launch.

The satellite is expected to be within range of the two ground stations on its sixth orbit and the next three succeeding one for from 20 to 50 minutes each time.

Ground stations in Europe—the British station at Goonhilly Down near Falmouth, England, and the French station at Plemour-Bodou in Brittany—may attempt to receive the transmissions during some of the orbits tonight. Later, they also will use the satellite for transmission purposes.

From its vantage point high above the earth, the complex space switchboard could serve as a relay point for 600 telephone channels or a single television channel. Within a week or so, it could make possible the first intercontinental television programs between the United States and Western Europe.

First for Private Concern

Telstar marks the first venture by private business into the space field. Bell Telephone Laboratories of American Telephone and Telegraph Co. developed the satellite and is paying the National Aeronautics and Space Administration $3 million to launch and track its orbit.

Fourteen hours after launching, if all goes well, Telstar will be in position for ground stations to start a series of television, phone, voice, radio and high-speed data transmission tests.

The initial experiments will be beamed to the satellite from Andover, Maine, where a huge horn antenna sweeps the sky to pluck signals from the high-flying package.

Telstar will receive the signals on one frequency, amplify them 10 billion times, and transmit them back to Andover and a station at Holmdel, N.J.

No attempt will be made at full-scale transatlantic television until scientists on the ground have had at least a week to make certain the thousands of parts in the 170-pound sphere are functioning.

Then it is planned to beam a 12-minute program of on-the-spot news highlights from a dozen U.S. cities via cable to Andover, up to the satellite and down to stations in England and France for relay to 16 European nations. A similar European program will be transmitted to United States viewers a day or two later.

All Channels Needed

Because of the extraordinary microwave band-width requirements of television, all 600 of Telstar's channels are needed for one-way television broadcast. Transatlantic television now is impossible because there are only a total of 550 channels between North America and overseas points.

Telstar is one of several types of experimental communications satellites planned by the United States to determine which is the best for a global communications network.

Sees Sale Gain For Housewares

CHICAGO (AP) — A spokesman for Corning Glass of Corning, N. Y., predicts an increase in sales of products of the housewares industry.

M. K. Cade told the annual convention of the National Housewares Manufacturers Association here Monday that "It looks as though sales will be high for the year."

"We feel that the stock market gyrations seem self-engineered, and we don't feel it will affect our business," he said. "There is absolutely no evidence of people pulling in their horns."

Cade said Corning Glass was not certain how good business would be, but he added:

"We hired economic consultants, and they have given us a reading that is favorable."

The convention opened Monday. More than 36,000 buyers were expected to attend the four-day show of the $6 billion-a-year industry.

Education Board Election Will Be Held Tomorrow

SAUGERTIES — Four positions for members to the Saugerties Central School Board of Education will be voted on Wednesday when the election is held at the Main Street School auditorium between the hours of 12 noon and 9:00 p. m. There will be four voting machines made available by the Saugerties Town Board to accommodate the expected large turnout.

There are seven candidates seeking the four open vacancies —Jack Pakanen, incumbent, running unopposed for a three-year term; Robert Herb, incumbent and presently serving as president of the board, will oppose Arthur DeCelle for a three-year term; Norman Nitschke and Stuart Buchan will vie against each other for a three-year term to replace Mrs. Agnes Schroeder, who has retired; Edwin Olson and Scott Gilpin are each seeking the two-year term to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Sarah Brandt.

Community Concern Releases Statement

The Committee for Community Concern has released the following rebuttal to Arthur DeCelle's defense of his candidacy for the Saugerties School Board.

Mr. DeCelle's statement, defending his out-of-district candidacy, attacks the very principle of representative government.

Many of the people of our school district joined the Centralized system with considerable reluctance and only after being assured that their respective areas would retain local representation. Now, after having achieved centralization, some seek to retreat from the gentleman's agreement which assured a voice to all areas. In so doing, they are stating by implication that certain areas are without adequate talent or competent citizens to represent them. We doubt that such is the case and urge support for the candidacy of Robert Herb, the "in-district candidate."

Our government is greatly influenced by precedent. If today West Camp and Malden loses its representation, tomorrow it may be Blue Mountain, Fish Creek, Mt. Marion and Glasco.

Last year the percentage was 92.3. In local examinations 2,124 were written, 1,899 were passed for a percentage of 89.4. Last year the percentage was 90.1.

Retentions in Grades

The number of retentions in the grades of the Saugerties Central Schools, as previously reported in these columns, was erroneously given as 58 out of 1832 (in accordance with information supplied to us). The figure should have read—retentions; 78 out of 1832 for a percentage of 4.2.

If the initial trials are successful, the three major U.S. television networks plan to pipe the program into American homes tonight.

Eye Fifth Orbit

Officials of AT&T said they hoped to conduct their first test transmissions to the satellite on the fifth orbit, about 12 hours after launch.

If preliminary tests are possible at that time, full-scale transmissions will take place during the sixth orbit, about 15 hours after launch.

The satellite is expected to be within range of the two ground stations on its sixth orbit and the next three succeeding one for from 20 to 50 minutes each time.

Ground stations in Europe—the British station at Goonhilly Down near Falmouth, England, and the French station at Plemour-Bodou in Brittany—may attempt to receive the transmissions during some of the orbits tonight. Later, they also will use the satellite for transmission purposes.

From its vantage point high above the earth, the complex space switchboard could serve as a relay point for 600 telephone channels or a single television channel. Within a week or so, it could make possible the first intercontinental television programs between the United States and Western Europe.

First for Private Concern

Telstar marks the first venture by private business into the space field. Bell Telephone Laboratories of American Telephone and Telegraph Co. developed the satellite and is paying the National Aeronautics and Space Administration $3 million to launch and track its orbit.

Fourteen hours after launching, if all goes well, Telstar will be in position for ground stations to start a series of television, phone, voice, radio and high-speed data transmission tests.

The initial experiments will be beamed to the satellite from Andover, Maine, where a huge horn antenna sweeps the sky to pluck signals from the high-flying package.

Telstar will receive the signals on one frequency, amplify them 10 billion times, and transmit them back to Andover and a station at Holmdel, N.J.

No attempt will be made at full-scale transatlantic television until scientists on the ground have had at least a week to make certain the thousands of parts in the 170-pound sphere are functioning.

Then it is planned to beam a 12-minute program of on-the-spot news highlights from a dozen U.S. cities via cable to Andover, up to the satellite and down to stations in England and France for relay to 16 European nations. A similar European program will be transmitted to United States viewers a day or two later.

All Channels Needed

Because of the extraordinary microwave band-width requirements of television, all 600 of Telstar's channels are needed for one-way television broadcast. Transatlantic television now is impossible because there are only a total of 550 channels between North America and overseas points.

Telstar is one of several types of experimental communications satellites planned by the United States to determine which is the best for a global communications network.

Sees Sale Gain For Housewares

CHICAGO (AP) — A spokesman for Corning Glass of Corning, N. Y., predicts an increase in sales of products of the housewares industry.

M. K. Cade told the annual convention of the National Housewares Manufacturers Association here Monday that "It looks as though sales will be high for the year."

"We feel that the stock market gyrations seem self-engineered, and we don't feel it will affect our business," he said. "There is absolutely no evidence of people pulling in their horns."

Cade said Corning Glass was not certain how good business would be, but he added:

"We hired economic consultants, and they have given us a reading that is favorable."

The convention opened Monday. More than 36,000 buyers were expected to attend the four-day show of the $6 billion-a-year industry.

Education Board Election Will Be Held Tomorrow

SAUGERTIES — Four positions for members to the Saugerties Central School Board of Education will be voted on Wednesday when the election is held at the Main Street School auditorium between the hours of 12 noon and 9:00 p. m. There will be four voting machines made available by the Saugerties Town Board to accommodate the expected large turnout.

There are seven candidates seeking the four open vacancies —Jack Pakanen, incumbent, running unopposed for a three-year term; Robert Herb, incumbent and presently serving as president of the board, will oppose Arthur DeCelle for a three-year term; Norman Nitschke and Stuart Buchan will vie against each other for a three-year term to replace Mrs. Agnes Schroeder, who has retired; Edwin Olson and Scott Gilpin are each seeking the two-year term to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Sarah Brandt.

Community Concern Releases Statement

The Committee for Community Concern has released the following rebuttal to Arthur DeCelle's defense of his candidacy for the Saugerties School Board.

Mr. DeCelle's statement, defending his out-of-district candidacy, attacks the very principle of representative government.

Many of the people of our school district joined the Centralized system with considerable reluctance and only after being assured that their respective areas would retain local representation. Now, after having achieved centralization, some seek to retreat from the gentleman's agreement which assured a voice to all areas. In so doing, they are stating by implication that certain areas are without adequate talent or competent citizens to represent them. We doubt that such is the case and urge support for the candidacy of Robert Herb, the "in-district candidate."

Our government is greatly influenced by precedent. If today West Camp and Malden loses its representation, tomorrow it may be Blue Mountain, Fish Creek, Mt. Marion and Glasco.
